Mobilizing For Disaster ... Everyone Pitches In

KINGSTON
For several terrifying moments Saturday, police and first-aid personnel throughout Ulster County mobilized for disaster: a schoolbus carrying 30 students overturned on Route 209 in the Town of Hurley.

Nine ambulance squads, three fire companies and three police agencies responded within minutes. Area hospitals were placed on alert. Passing motorists registered shock at the sight.

Standing off to the side were members of the Ulster County Ambulance Association, viewing the reactions and work of their comrades. Their assessment: had the "disaster" been real, the victims would have been treated and transported quickly and correctly.

Every other year, the Ulster County Ambulance Association stages a mock disaster to prepare its members for the day when a massive tragedy takes place. The only ones aware that Saturday's event would take place were officers of the association, state police, the victims, and the press.

The "victims" were boy scouts from Woodstock and Junior Squad members from the Ellenville area. They spent Saturday morning splashing their clothes with red paint and donning attachments that simulated real wounds. Shortly before noon, they crawled into the overturned school bus to await the arrival of the first rescuers.

First on the scene were state police, closely followed by a stream of ambulances and patrol cars from neighboring areas. "When they realized that it was a fake," said disaster chairman Gil Gray, "they didn't let up for a minute. They treated it like the real thing."

Local hospitals, likewise, were unaware at first that the disaster was being staged. When they realized what was taking place, emergency room personnel at Kingston, Benedictine and Ellenville Hospitals continued to administer simulated emergency treatment until all the students were admitted.

And just one hour and 28 minutes after the first alarm was sounded, the last "victim" was discharged from the emergency room at Kingston Hospital.

"I think we now have it down to a science," Gray commented, "everyone responded instantly and did exactly what they had to do. If I ever need an ambulance, I hope it is in Ulster County."

Ambulance services from Ellenville, Marletown, Accord-Kerhonkson, Kingston, Woodstock, Saugerties, Rosendale and Olive participated, in addition to the Red Cross Disaster Van. Police and fire volunteers from the Towns of Ulster and Hurley and the Sheriff's Department, were also involved.

Ford Expected to Release Most of CIA Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five months after President Ford asked Vice President Nelson Rockefeller to head an investigation into U.S. intelligence agencies, the uproar over the final product is almost as loud as the one that created the probe.

Ford will hold a nationally televised news conference at 7:30 p.m. EDT tonight, and he is expected to announce he will release the 350-page Rockefeller commission report but withhold from the public an accompanying report on allegations the Central Intelligence Agency was involved in plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

White House sources said Ford will turn over the commission's findings on the assassination question to the Senate committee investigating the CIA, headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Ford got the report Friday. Despite an earlier statement from Rockefeller it would be released to the public Sunday, the White House decided to keep it under wraps, not saying if or when it would be released.

But Ford aides said during the weekend it would be released, but without the sensitive material on alleged CIA plots to kill foreign leaders, which the panel did not complete.

Related CIA stories on Page 20.

Attempting to clarify the confusion, White House sources said Ford had always intended to release it but was offended when commission officials took the lead in announcing an exact release time.

They said Ford felt he was being pre-empted by lesser officials and decided to assert his right to control the situation, providing himself time to read and digest the report before making it public in orderly fashion.

White House aides have been saying one reason for not publicizing the evidence about CIA plots was that Ford did not want to be the President to blow the whistle on possible wrongdoing by his predecessors.

The Rockefeller commission was set up Jan. 5 in response to allegations the CIA violated the law by spying on domestic antiwar dissidents.

But last month Ford said the panel also would look into reports the CIA may have been involved in plots to kill foreign leaders, such as Cuba's Fidel Castro and the late Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier of Haiti, Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic and Patrice Lumumba of the Congo.

Ford, who returned from a grueling trip to Europe last week, read the CIA report during the weekend, but also found time to play 18 holes of golf both Saturday and Sunday.

On Wednesday he begins two days of meetings with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, at which Ford will probably relay results of his talks last week in Austria with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The Israeli cabinet today said it would push for an interim settlement with Egypt. The Cabinet instructed Rabin to tell Ford that Jerusalem would be willing to make concessions "parallel" to concessions from Cairo.

Meanwhile, Robert A. Maheu, a former aide to billionaire Howard Hughes, refused to answer questions and pleaded the Fifth Amendment today before a Senate committee investigating alleged CIA assassination plots against foreign leaders.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who chaired an hour-long session of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, told newsmen the committee would decide what action to take in view of Maheu's refusal to answer "many questions, some of substance."

"The witness took the 5th Amendment, on many questions, some of substance," said Tower, who presided in the absence of Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho. "The committee has not yet devised what to do."

Maheu also declined to answer any questions from reporters outside the hearing room.

Saxe Pleads Guilty

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — In a surprise move minutes before trial, revolutionary Susan E. Saxe, on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List for five years, changed her plea to guilty today to charges stemming from a 1970 bank robbery here.

The plea was entered by the former Brandeis University honor student in exchange for a 10-year prison term under an agreement reached with the government.

Ms. Saxe, 26, of Albany, N.Y., also pleaded guilty in connection with the looting of a National Guard armory in Newbury Port, Mass., three weeks after the local holdup which occurred on Sept. 1, 1970.

380 Graduate From Ulster Community

By Lynn Mulvaney

STONE RIDGE

"Thank you for touching our lives," Business Professor Neil A. Whithurst, the first faculty member of Ulster County Community College, told the close to 380 graduates of UCCC Sunday during graduation ceremonies on the Stone Ridge Campus.

"... Importantly, you have a greater sense of individual identity. In spite of your questioning family and cultural influences, you seem to know who you are," he suggested. "While in the past our identities were based on who our family was, what clubs or organizations we belonged to, whom we associated with, what material things we possessed ... these associations now appear secondary."

Whithurst said that they "are important, but not all important. It is the real person, the inner self that must be developed and brought forward."

Richard Alexander, a member of the first graduating class of UCCC in 1965 told the huge audience that passing years have brought new faces, new buildings and new ideas to the Ulster campus.

But, he noted, not everything had changed. "The Ulster County Legislature and the UCCC Board of Trustees all hold the college as an 'important part and need of Ulster County. The quality, integrity and dedication of the college's faculty and staff have remained at a high level," he explained. "Student interest and enthusiasm in the programs and activities of the college have also remained high."

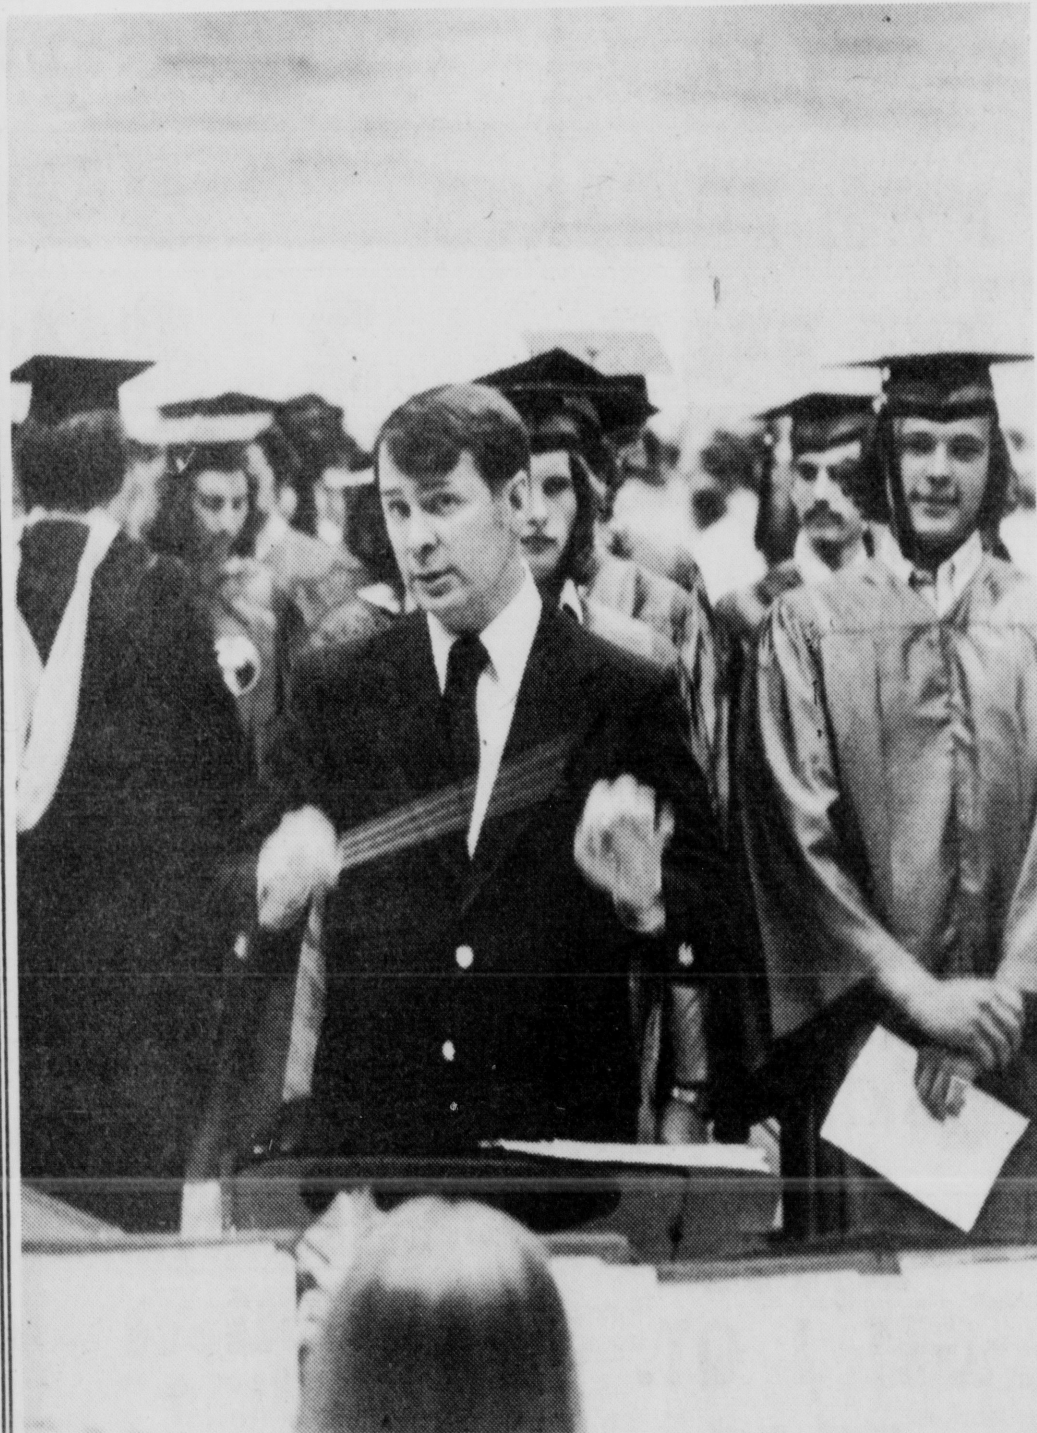

UCCC's new president, Robert T. Brown noted that the first commencement address to 46 students in 1965 was entitled, "Where Do We Go From Here?"

We have come a long way since then, he said, noting the 380 graduates receiving degrees, certificates and diplomas. He explained that this year the college, for the first time, was privileged to confer a Regents external degree and that three people received dual degrees, and two who previously earned degrees were receiving a second one.

President Brown pointed out that a "ham radio" station is maintained on campus, donated in the memory of the late Jean Fox, a member of the 1965 graduating class. He also noted that Assistant Psychology Professor Ann Gilchrist, was a member of the first graduating class.

Mrs. George F. Bushnell, chairman of the board of trustees, saw the past year as the beginning of a new era in the history of the college. She cited highlights, mentioning the first international education courses offered by UCCC in England and the visit to the Stone Ridge campus of Thomas Hodgson, chief superintendent of London's metropolitan police.

Speaking on behalf of the students was Kathleen A. Ross of West Hurley, secretary of the Student Government Organization, who cited the need for tolerance and understanding for people of other walks of life. She explained that she has learned about the cultures of other nationalities through her foreign language studies.

'Crime Wave' In Dutchess

DOVER PLAINS

State police arrested a 20-year-old Dover Plains man early today on multiple charges including attempted murder, kidnapping and rape after a one-man crime wave during which he allegedly wounded three "good samaritans" and kidnapped and raped one woman.

Joseph Thomas was caught in a roadblock on Route 343 shortly after midnight by state police and Dutchess County Sheriff's Deputies when a deputy fired four shots at the vehicle, disabling it before it could speed away, troopers said.

According to authorities, the series of incidents began at about 10 p.m. following a drinking party when Thomas became embroiled in an argument with his wife. He allegedly began firing two rifles near his home.

Thomas then got into his car and sped off along Route 343 driving erratically, troopers said. He lost control of his car and flipped it over.

Troopers said Thomas fired "point blank" at three autos that stopped to aid him at the accident scene. Two women, identified as Amory Winthrop, 43, of Millbrook, and Soon Ja Nam, 34, of Wassaic sustained minor gunshot wounds and a third, identified as Alexander Swaab, 40, of Dover Plains, was cut by flying glass, police said. All three were treated and released at area hospitals.

Thomas then halted a car with a lone woman at the wheel and forced her to drive him to an unoccupied dwelling where he allegedly raped her, according to troopers.

Following the alleged rape, Thomas drove the unidentified woman back toward Dover Plains and was finally halted at the roadblock near the scene of his initial auto accident.

Thomas was jailed without bail after arraignment.

Public Meeting Slated On Area Health Agency

NEWBURGH A Public information meeting will be held Wednesday, beginning at 1 p.m. on the organization of a Health Systems Agency for the Hudson Valley area at Aquinas Hall of Mt. Saint Mary College in Newburgh.

The counties of Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan and Westchester have been designated a Health Service Area by Gov. Hugh L. Carey. Ulster County opposed being placed in the downstate area, preferring being placed in an area centered around Albany, to no avail.

The agency to be discussed at the public meeting Wednesday will be created under the authority of the federal Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974, and will be responsible for health planning, resource and program development, and health facilities regulation for the Hudson Valley Health Service Area.

Supporters of the act call it "the most far-reaching federal legislation ever enacted affecting the health of the nation."

Sponsoring the meeting are the seven county governments of the area, and the New York Metropolitan Regional Medical Program (NYMRMP). NYMRMP Director Dr. Jesse B. Aronson will be the meeting moderator.

The meeting will feature presentations from Florence Fiore, director of the division of resource development of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Region II Office, and Dr. Kevin Cahill, special assistant to the governor for health affairs.

Hoderath Top Kiwanian

KINGSTON Hubert (Hody) Hoderath, a member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club for more than 30 years, received the club's "Outstanding Kiwanian of the Year" award at the annual Kiwanis dinner-dance at Wiltwyck Country Club Saturday night.

Hoderath was presented the Fred L. VanDeusen Memorial Award, given in memory of the late, long-time secretary-treasurer of the Kingston Kiwanis Club. Hoderath was honored for "exemplifying the principals that Mr. VanDeusen stood for and for his club and community service over a long period."

Hoderath served as president of the Kingston Kiwanis

Club in 1954, and served in 1963 as lieutenant governor of the Hudson River Division of Kiwanis, which includes more than 20 clubs and is the largest division in New York State.

A resident of 120 West O'Reilly Street, Hoderath has served as chairman of the Support of Spiritual Aims Committee of the local organization. During his chairmanship, the club has played an active role in honoring outstanding local clergymen and young people for their service to religious organizations.

Hoderath is a retired principal of the vocational school at Kingston Consolidated School District. He is a past member of the Greater Cosistory of the Fair Street Reformed Church and is senior elder emeritus at the church.

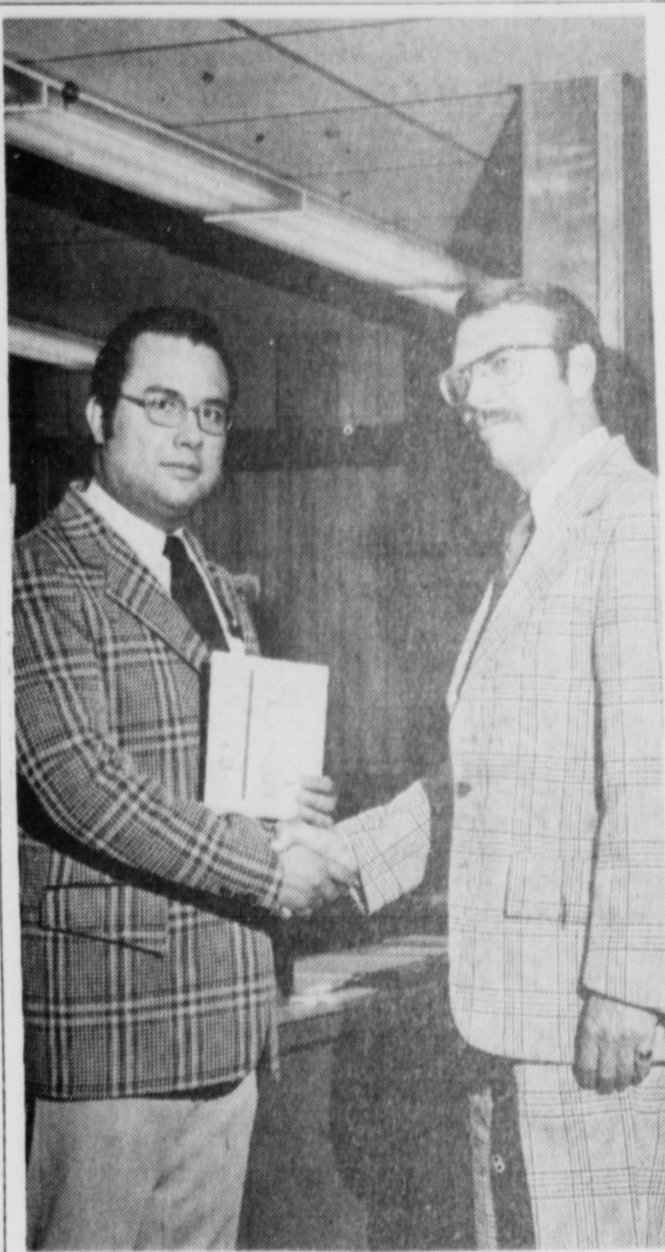

Ulster Town Caucus

LAKE KATRINE Town of Ulster Democrats will caucus Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Lake Katrine School in Lake Katrine.

Three Democrats from each election district will be named to attend the unofficial Democratic County Convention Monday, June 16.

Town of Ulster Democrats will also nominate five candidates for the county legislature in District 5, which consists of Hurley, Olive and the Town of Ulster.

Honored by IRS

Joseph M. Gonzalez (left) of 7 Rose Lane, Saugerties, was honored recently by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for his aid to the Spanish-speaking community in Newburgh through the IRS' VITA program. Presenting the certificate of appreciation to Gonzalez, who is employed by Ferroxcube, is George S. Alberts, the IRS district director for Northeastern New York.

Hutton, Hudson Valley Nursing Homes Procedures Criticized

KINGSTON

Although much of the attention of the New York State Health Department has been focused recently on older, wood-frame nursing home structures, two of Ulster County's newest facilities have found themselves subjected to close scrutiny by state inspectors.

And in each instance, state officials have found some room for improvement.

The Hutton Nursing Home in Kingston and the Hudson Valley Nursing Center in Highland are both listed by the Health Department as "operationally deficient." In each case, the state has found fault with particular "administrative services" and procedures at each facility.

A spokesman at the Health Department's regional office in White Plains told the Freeman that Hutton Nursing Home—built in 1973 and located on Washington Avenue near North Front Street—does not conform to all administrative procedures outlined in state regulations.

Specifically, said the spokesman, Hutton has operated without a pharmacy committee or a utilization review committee and that certain of its administrative policies have not been put in writing.

James Scuderi, administrator of Hutton Nursing Home, has denied that the problems still exist. "There were certain administrative procedures which we did not conform to in the beginning," said Scuderi, "but those problems have been cleared up. The laws are constantly changing and we have always moved to conform to the new laws as quickly as possible."

Scuderi said the facility now has a pharmacy committee and a utilization review committee (the latter whether the beds in the facility are being used to their best purpose) and the policies are now all in written form.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "we are keeping our head above water."

The Hudson Valley Nursing Center in Highland, a 120-bed facility built in 1973, was described by the health department official as also having administrative procedural violations. The official said that certain organizational policies were not put in writing, and were therefore applied inconsistently; that there has been a large turnover on all levels of the staff and that certain job changes have resulted in some staff dissatisfaction.

But a spokesman at the Highland facility vehemently denied those charges, stating, in addition, that there has never been any formal notification from the health department that its administrative procedures were less than proper. She said she is not aware of any dissatisfaction among the staff.

In neither case did the health department question the quality of care at the two county facilities. But the spokesman did note that both Hutton and Hudson Valley have been "consistently informed of the deficiencies," and that both may be subject to penalties if the problems are not rectified to the department's satisfaction.

Land Use, Preservation Discussed at Workshop

The medical malpractice crisis is not solved. A law has been passed which looks good on paper. However, it has done nothing to provide better protection for you. Instead it perpetuates inequities which only escalate the cost of medical care without increasing its quality.

Therefore if the medical malpractice insurance problem is still unresolved, then effective June 30, 1975 we will not be able to provide you with medical care and treatment.

Patients who need medical care after that date can secure it through procedures established by the Ulster County Medical Society with the co-operation of the local health agencies.

'Stand Up And Fight'

ROSENDALE

John J. Woods, president of the New York State School Boards Association, called on local school boards to emulate their ancestors of 200 years ago "to stand up and fight and be counted and let the chips fall where they may" at the Ulster County School Boards Association annual reorganization meeting at Williams Lake Hotel.

He said that the present decade may be decisive in the continuing process of erosion that has begun to weaken the autonomy of local school boards.

Woods commented that the times have changed because "we are not building anymore; no more big bond issue drives; our enrollments have stopped climbing; we are not hiring new teachers; we are in a Taylor Law age; our property taxes have never been higher."

He cited increased teacher union power in the state with "many teacher union representatives calling for more and more board power to be turned over to the teachers . . . Every year we negotiate away some of our job."

Outgoing county association president Tom Reynolds of Kingston was honored for his longtime leadership of the organization. He has served on the Kingston board of education for ten years and has not sought reelection.

Ann Culer of the Rondout Valley School District was unanimously chosen new president with Herbert Fliegner of New Paltz the new vice president and Doris Mulvin of Kingston new secretary-treasurer.

Klein Speaks Out

KINGSTON "Confinement in a juvenile detention facility for three years is an inadequate deterrent for juveniles convicted of acts which would constitute heinous crimes if they were adults," according to County Legislator Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 6) who believes the district attorney should be the prosecutor of all juvenile crimes. At present the county attorney and city corporation counsel are required to prosecute under the Family Court Act.

Klein would also like to see the imposition of more severe sentences of confinement for juveniles convicted of acts which if committed by adults would be classified as major felonies.

The Esopus-Rosendale legislator is therefore asking the Ulster County Legislature to go on record as urging the governor and the New York State Legislature to adopt and implement such changes in the Family Court Act.

Klein feels that the increase in juvenile crime in the area is attributable at least in part to what he calls certain archaic provisions of the Family Court Act which prevent adequate prosecution and the imposition of sentences sufficient as a deterrent against repeated

Lawmakers Face Crisis

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — As legislators return to the Capitol today, they confront the worst fiscal crisis in New York City's history, the appointment of a new mental hygiene commissioner and stricter proposed nursing home regulations.

New York City, with $792 million in notes due Wednesday, needs immediate action, and legislative leaders have given top priority to creation of a special corporation that would rescue the city from default.

City and state officials worked through the weekend trying to shape final agreement on a plan to create the Municipal Assistance Corp., which would purchase about $3 billion of the city's short-term notes and convert them into long-term obligations.

Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson, a Binghamton Republican, has taken a hard stand in the matter, insisting a limit be imposed on how much the city may borrow and that the agency be given veto powers on the issuing of future notes.

Senate confirmation of Dr. Lawrence C. Kolb as the new head of the state Department of Mental Hygiene is scheduled for a vote today. Sen. William T. Conklin, deputy majority leader of the Senate, has strongly challenged the nomination.

Despite the objections of the Brooklyn Republican leader, however, it appears Kolb will be confirmed. Conklin primarily objected to what he felt were inadequate assurances Kolb would revamp mental hygiene policies.

The Assembly is slated to take up five bills aimed at strengthening the regulation of nursing homes and other health care facilities, including one proposal that would require inspections on a regular basis.

"The bills are designed to provide the Health Department with an arsenal of weapons to oversee the industry and drive out those who abuse patients," said Assemblyman Alan Hevesi, D-Queens, one of 24 Assembly sponsors.

The proposals, considered certain to pass in the Assembly, would require full financial disclosure for a facility. The bills reflect recommendations of a special Moreland Act commission set up to probe health care in the state.

Under another bill to be acted on by the Assembly this week, senior citizens and the handicapped would be entitled to half-fare rates on all public transit systems in the state during non-rush hour periods.

In related proposals, the Assembly will also take up a measure that would give the governor veto powers over decisions by public authorities and a bill to bar unilateral toll and fare hikes or service cutbacks by authorities.

the Third Ward, the only elected GOP official, does not have the endorsement of his (ward) committeemen for reelection and according to Smith, the prospects of getting it are decidedly dim.

"As far as I know I've got four votes against me," Smith said in reference to the four committeemen that represent the Third Ward. The four committeemen are Michael Dvorocik, John Schomer, Raymond Armater (a former 11th Ward alderman from that area prior to the 1968 reapportionment) and Joseph Markle.

Markle, a resident of Pettit Avenue, is the man the committeemen want to "run for alderman in the Third Ward.

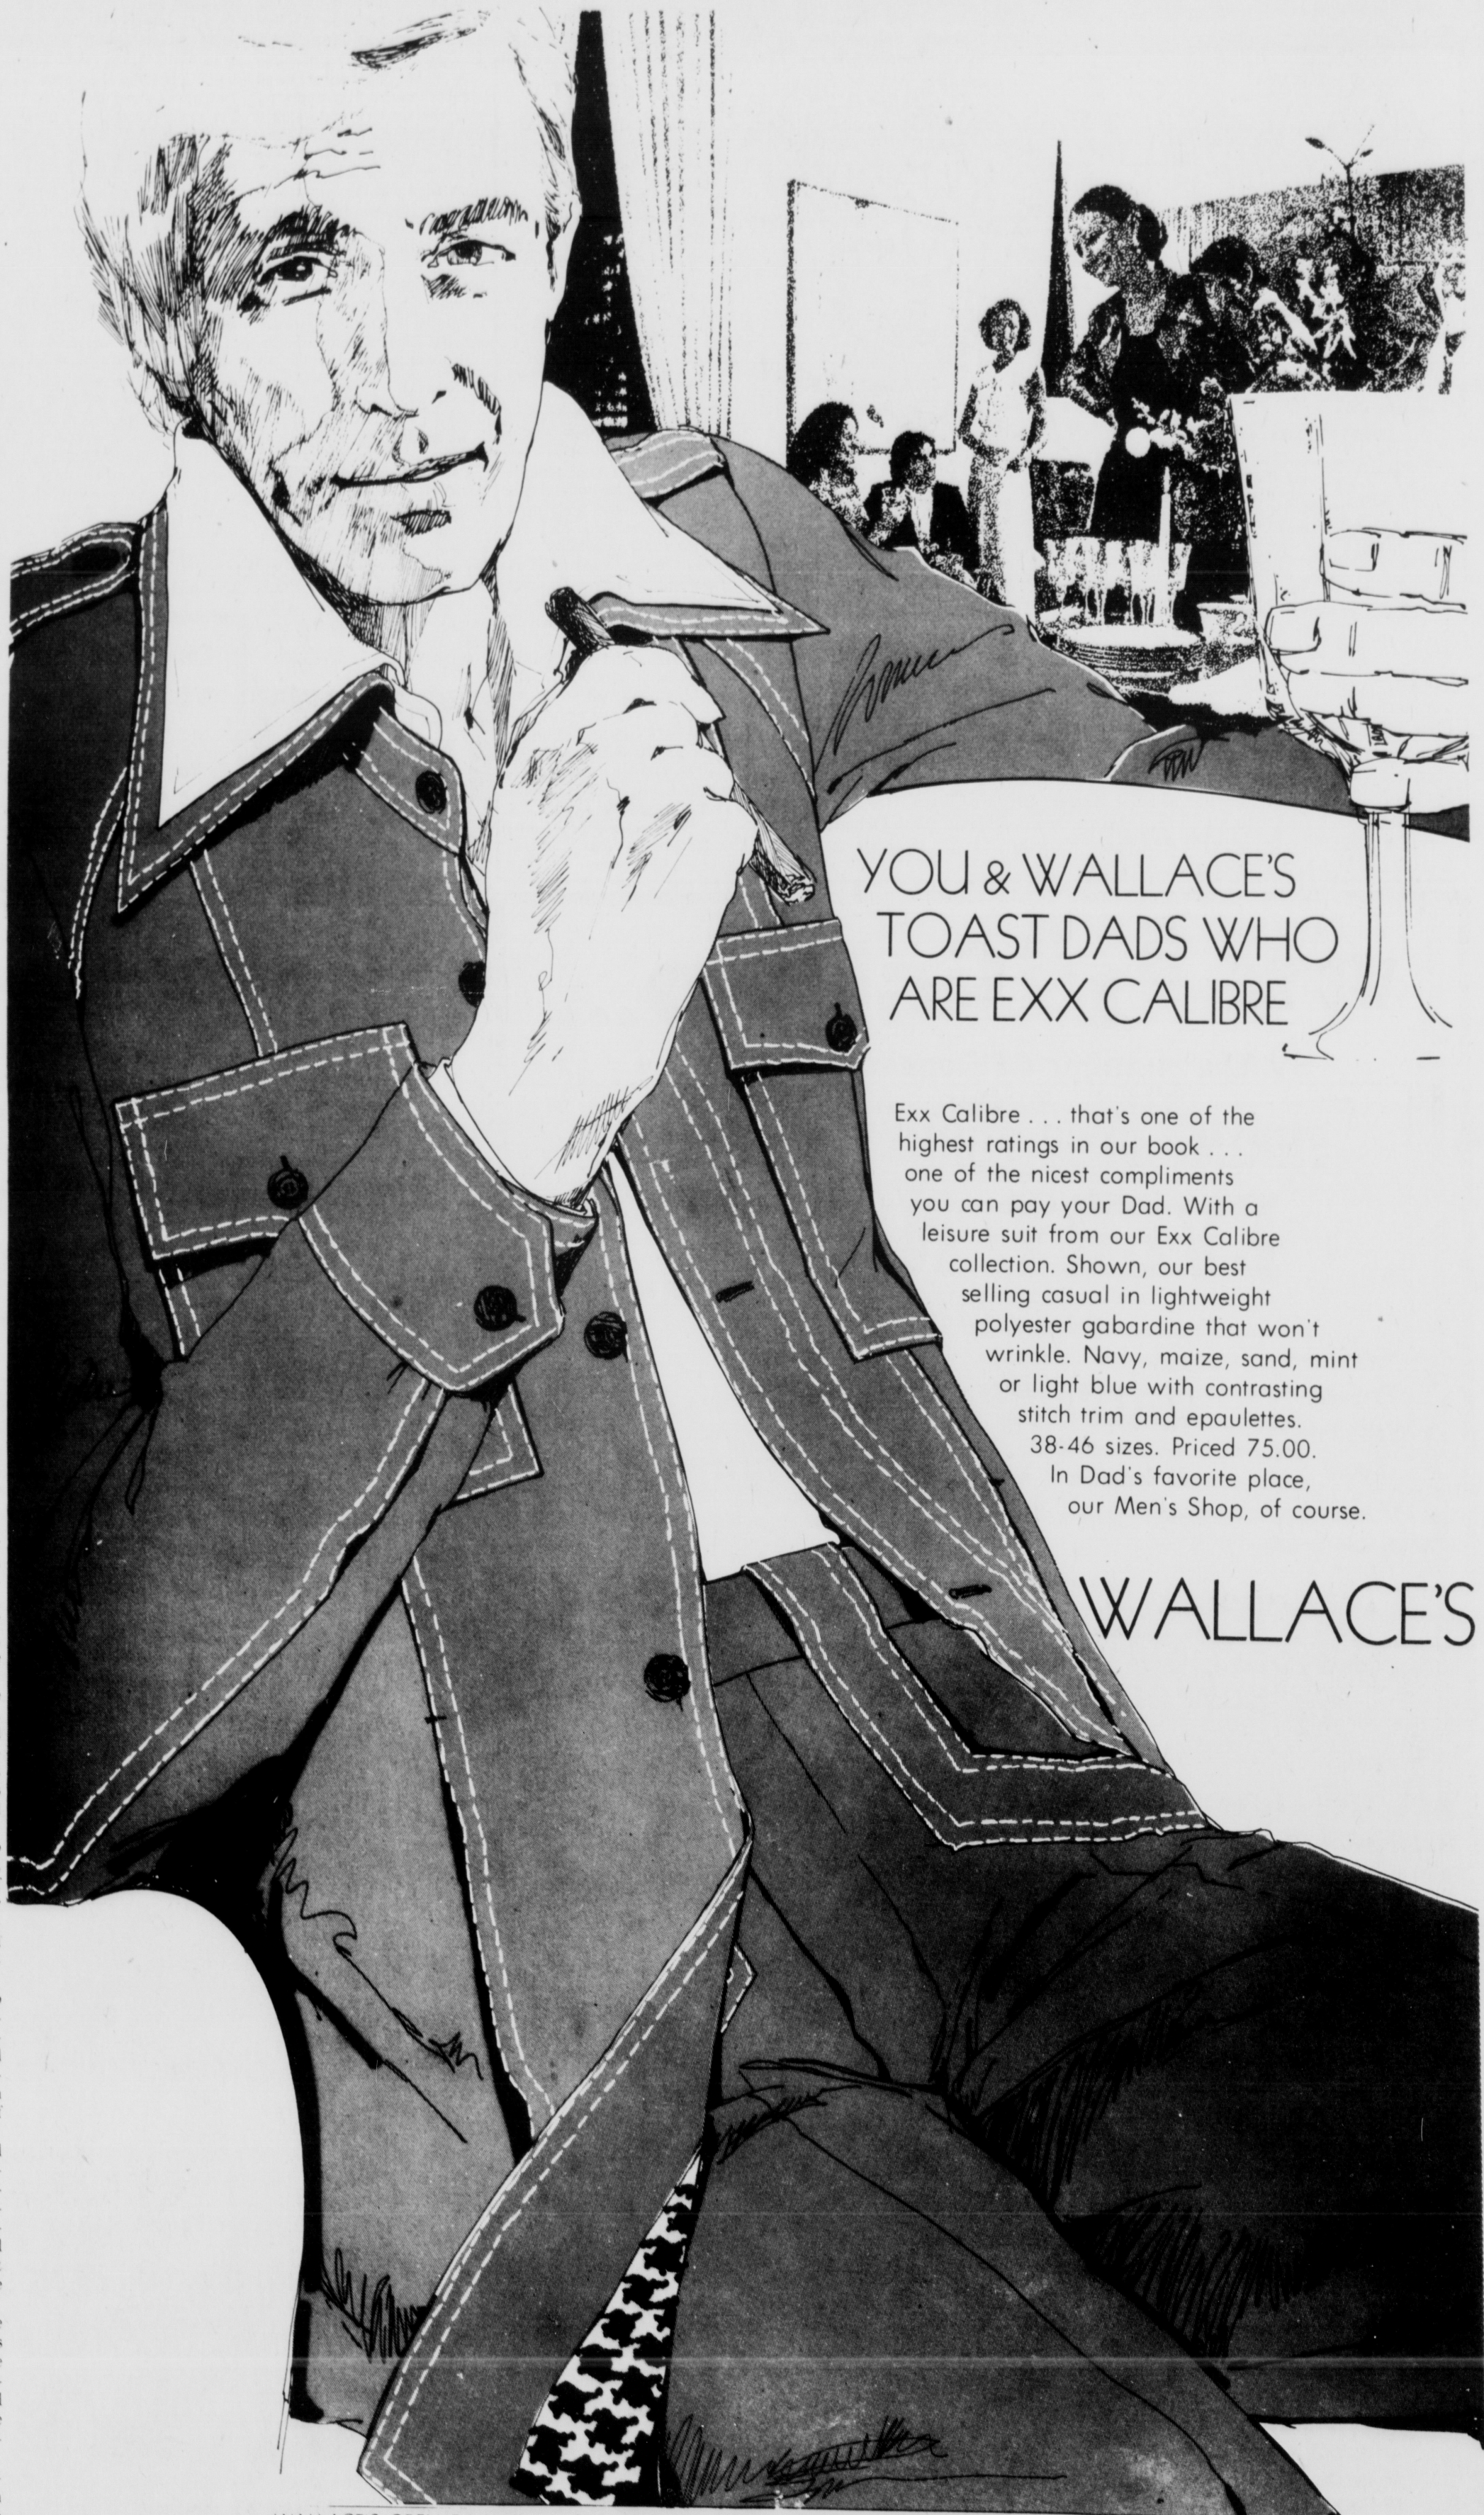

Ironically, he was recommended by and replaced Smith as a committeeman in the ward. Smith also recommended Schomer.

The Smith-Markle dispute goes back two years when Smith, facing a grand jury investigation involving a fatal accident on the Col. Chandler Drive, let it be known in the violations.

The board will act on the resolution at its next meeting.

Thursday, June 19 at 8 p.m. in the Ulster County Office Building.

Rep. Fish on Trip to Russia: 'Police State is Obvious'

KINGSTON Congressman Hamilton Fish's hotel rooms were monitored and his telephone never worked unless someone wanted to call him during his nine-day working trip to the Soviet Union recently.

That a police state exists is very obvious, he said, explaining the mechanism of control the Soviet government exerts in its attempts to keep its people from exposure to western thinking.

Addressing the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association at a luncheon meeting Friday at Holiday Inn, Fish suggested that the Soviets have a great stake in maintaining the system in view of increased industrialization, its achievement of military parity and its successful space race with the United States.

"You have to recognize that the Soviets have a siege mentality," Fish explained, saying that historically Russia has been overrun and has also fought off all neighbors for a great many years. She has been obsessed with a threat to her existence, he said. Historically isolated, she has set up buffer countries since World War II when she lost 20 million lives.

Introduced by Louis Conti, Fish said that there are some dissident activists, and that the Baptist religion is growing fast but there are relatively no basic human rights. And, he blames the fact on the lack of an independent judiciary in Russia.

He told of how the Soviets deal with those who attempt to emigrate. Denial of visas are based on age, military service, crime, insanity or parental objection.

As an example he told of a person who had never been called to military service before being called up two days after applying to emigrate. Parents are also pressured to refuse their children permission to leave and insanity is easily proven when a person is declared schizophrenic because he disagrees with the communist philosophy.

Fish said there is no written law in such instances and appeals can only be made to the administrative system not to the courts.

Free speech? Fish said he was told the shortest protest demonstration there last 30 seconds and the longest four minutes. The punishment? Five years in exile.

A Soviet prosecutor told the congressmen that "one cannot use free speech to subvert our society."

Why do people put up with the system? Fish feels it is their sense of isolationism, fear, and total dependence on the state for their subsistence, among other reasons.

He said it is important that we try and have some kind of understanding of the officials and the forces at work there. The mere presence of the Soviet Union has a tremendous influence on our foreign affairs, Fish said, saying he and other congressmen came away feeling that the U.S. detente with the Soviets is good but it should be accompanied by a quest for human rights for the Soviet people.

Citing the American technology we are passing along to the Russians, Fish and others at the luncheon felt that detente should afford the U.S. leverage to demand something more of the Soviets in the area of human rights.

Fish said he plans to ask Secretary of State Kissinger "what he feels detente is?"

Malpractice Legislation Hailed As Step Toward a Solution

NEWBURGH

"The malpractice legislation signed by Governor Carey last week is a positive step toward a practical solution of the malpractice crisis," according to A. Gordon McAleer, executive director of the Northern Metropolitan Hospital Association (NMHA), a voluntary membership group representing voluntary and public hospitals in Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster and Westchester counties.

The new law provides for changes in processing complaints of professional misconduct and options for physicians and hospitals to obtain malpractice insurance coverage. Physicians now can get coverage from an insurance company being developed by their own state medical society.

Hospitals also may obtain malpractice insurance from a company being developed by the Hospital Association of New York State.

Noting that malpractice insurance will be available to hospitals and physicians July 1, McAleer said "The immediate problem of finding alternate coverage has been solved."

NMHA urges physicians to take part in the medical society's insurance program and to continue to practice after July 1 if they are able to obtain malpractice coverage.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 9, 1975

Fish's Trip

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr.'s recently concluded trip to Russia again emphasized the concern in this country over Soviet policy on emigration. Primarily, the congressional group, including Fish, went to Moscow to get the message across that the United States, despite the debacle in Vietnam, was still determined to honor its commitments to the Free World. But since the group consisted of members of the House Subcommittee on Immigration, Naturalization and International Law, conversations naturally drifted to the emotional issue of the inability of Jews to emigrate freely from Russia.

Fish reported that Soviet officials generally maintained a poker face whenever the subject was broached, which was frequently. Occasionally they would display short temper or attempt to beloud the issue in a smoke screen, but the Millbrook congressman said he's convinced that Russian authorities were made sufficiently aware that the American congress retains a probing interest in what is looked upon a denial of basic human rights.

The Soviet Union's point of view is that since many of these potential emigres received a costly state education, their obligation is to remain in Russia and give the state a yield on the funds it invested. The opposing view is that the right of a person to leave his country is basic. Fish's hopes that these latest talks are a prelude toward future negotiations aimed at finally settling this thorn to detente.

Refugee Aid Lags

The prolonged stay of Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees at temporary centers on the Pacific is posing a potential health problem. Living in tents with makeshift sanitary provisions, the refugees are vulnerable to illness and the arrival of the rainy seasons soon will aggravate the problem, especially on the island of Guam where there are 47,000 men, women and children in refugee camps.

Processing and resettling of refugees here in the United States of America is proceeding much too slowly. President Ford's appointment of an advisory committee headed by John Eisenhower to oversee the resettlement effort is a timely step. It can help move refugees out of the processing pipeline and into American communities.

The representation of church, industry and labor organizations on the committee reflects the fact that there is a point where government responsibility for the refugees must start to diminish while the participation of the American people themselves grows. Thousands of offers to help refugee families establish new homes have already been forthcoming. The President's new committee needs to turn this sentiment of American hospitality into tangible commitments that will move refugees from tents and barracks into places they can call home.

Berry's World

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — We began a series of columns last January exposing malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance inside the Drug Enforcement Administration. We charged that internal dissension had crippled the agency and had weakened the war against narcotics.

Our articles triggered a series of events which has culminated in the forced resignation of Administrator John Bartels. He was asked to resign by Deputy Atty. Gen. Harold Tyler.

Bartels resisted at first, saying he needed time "to sleep on it." He immediately got in touch with one of his predecessors, Myles Ambrose, now an influential Washington attorney, who phoned the White House in Bartels' behalf.

But the White House refused to save Bartels. The next morning, he met again with Tyler and asked for still more time to decide. A few hours later, Tyler notified Bartels that his time was up.

Our sources say Bartels was bounced to take the sting out of hearings scheduled this week by Sen. Henry Jackson, D.-Wash. His subcommittee has been investigating the charges we raised in our columns. We disclosed, for example, that:

—Top narcotics officials had been so busy investigating one another that they had little time to cope with the dope dealers.

—Despite record high budgets, DEA had been unable to stem the flow of heroin into the country. An estimated 125,000 new addicts, we reported, became hooked in the past year alone.

—The handling of internal corruption cases was sloppy. We quoted from a confidential management study, which warned that the number of unresolved corruption cases leaves "the agency in an embarrassing situation."

—We reported that corrupt DEA agents had been caught dealing in the drugs they were supposed to be suppressing.

—As early as 1960, the drug enforcement apparatus maintained close ties with the Central Intelligence Agency. DEA has 64 former CIA employees on its payroll and another 13 narcotics agents were trained by the CIA as its supersecret counterespionage school, we reported.

—And we revealed that the drug agents maintained love traps for the CIA in New York City and San Francisco. Foreign diplomats were lured into these apartments by prostitutes in the pay of the CIA, which filmed the sexual adventures through hidden one-way mirrors and later tried to blackmail the victims into becoming informants.

We began our investigation of the DEA in November 1974, two months before we published the first story. Our associate, Bob Owens, confronted the DEA with charges that Bartels was covering up an investigation of an assistant, Vincent Promuto.

Thereafter, DEA kept a sharp eye on us. One internal memo warned that we were "familiar" with "the Promuto matter." Later, Bartels drafted a four-page, single-spaced response to one of our columns and ordered every DEA employee to read it.

From Thailand to Turkey, DEA agents were also instructed to make sure Bartels' opus was published in the local newspapers. The DEA office in Thailand gave up, explaining in a memo that "none of the Bangkok newspapers subscribe to Jack Anderson's columns." But in most places, Bartels' orders were meticulously obeyed. Responding to our charges, it seemed, had priority over fighting the drug smugglers.

The Seattle regional director assured Bartels that "all supervisors were held responsible to insure that each employee read and initialed" the four-page opus. In Boston, the regional director "personally read Mr. Bartels' letter to all Boston regional office agents." In Detroit, the regional director boasted that he had submitted the letter to the Detroit Free Press under his own signature.

And the chief of the New York drug task force wrote to Bartels: "We have read several articles by columnist Jack Anderson which have been less than complimentary to the Drug Enforcement Administration... Your accomplishments and professionalism are deserving of accolades not criticism."

The American people will be able to judge the DEA for themselves, however, after Sen. Jackson has concluded his hearings.

BARRED BAR: Sen. John Sparkman, D.-Ala., and Sen. Frank Church, D.-Idaho, happen to have adjoining hideaways in the Capitol Building, linked by a bathroom-bar which could be entered from either side.

But the 75-year-old Sparkman, by right of seniority, outranks the 50-year-old Church. As the Senate Foreign Relations chairman, Sparkman pleaded that he needed a private bar to entertain visiting potentates.

So orders went out to board up Church's entrance and leave Sparkman with his own private toilet and boozing facilities. The carpenters, however, got their directions mixed up and boarded Sparkman's side of the fancy bathroom.

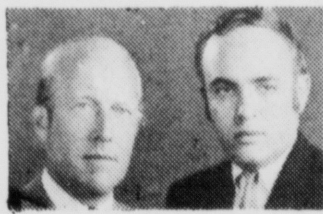

But Church didn't enjoy the unexpected luxury for long. One day, he found his new bathroom-bar sealed off. Sparkman belatedly had expropriated the facilities, as evidence that the seniority system is still intact in the Senate.

Inside Reports

Angling for Corporate Funds

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — When Washington agents of big business received a May 14 plea for corporate political contributions signed by four Democratic superstars, they suspected that the bad old days were returning despite the scandals of Watergate.

Indeed, the fund appeal from an organization called the Democratic Forum was redolent with memories of Watergate dirty tricks. The legitimate signatures of the four famous Democrats — Sens. Hubert Humphrey, Henry M. Jackson, George McGovern and Edmund Muskie — were affixed to a letter neither they nor their staffers had ever seen.

When we discovered this and pointed it out last week, the Democratic Forum apologized for what it calls a horrible mistake. But the incident shows that the temptation for politicians to continue milking corporate treasuries persists despite the record of federal convictions and ruined lives it spawned.

Founded after the 1972 Democratic debacle as an issue-oriented party group, the Democratic Forum has won enthusiastic support from a wide range of leaders. The four Senators agreed late last year to sign a fund-appeal, which finally went out April 25 to a broad-based mailing list.

Temptation reared its head at a March 12 fund-raising cocktail party given by the Forum (featuring Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and labor leader Leonard Woodcock). Some corporate representatives paid for the $50 tickets with corporate checks. The idea was born: why not really milk these corporate cows?

The new, May 14 letter, to be sent to some 70 Washington-based corporate representatives, was mailed with this paragraph added to the April 25 letter: "Please lend a hand. Your contribution or that of your corporation will help prepare our party for the responsibilities that lie ahead in 1976." Without asking permission, Forum staffers put the signatures of the four Senators under the new letter.

The Forum now apologizes for that (though only after we called it to the Senators' attention). But the broader question remains of receiving corporate contributions for a frankly partisan project ("the development of the Democratic party's 1976 platform"). Since no money for candidates is involved, the solicitation may be legal (though this is debatable); the impropriety by what has been considered a valuable new adjunct to the party seems indisputable.

CONNALLY VS. BENTSEN?

John B. Connally, riding a wave of amazing popularity back home in Texas, is being pressured to be the Republican challenger next year for the Senate seat held by his former political ally and now estranged friend, Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

If he does reverse his present inclination against running, Connally would be heavily favored over Bentsen — completing a story drenched in irony. Only a few months ago, Bentsen was riding high as a sure shot for Senate reelection and a Democratic presidential contender, having kept his hands clean of old friend Connally's fight to avoid federal prison.

Republican leaders in Dallas pushed a Senate race hard with Connally when he returned as a hero to Texas after a jury here on April 17 found him innocent of bribery and conspiracy charges. Some Connally intimates say nothing could induce him to try becoming one among 100 Senators, but others are not so sure.

Bentsen's successful long-shot campaign for the Senate in 1970 was engineered by old friend Connally, then still a Democrat, and his powerful political apparatus. But the indictment against Connally by the special Watergate prosecutor ended that partnership and intimate friendship. As one prominent Democrat, a friend of both men, put it: "Lloyd got himself an 11-foot pole to make sure he didn't get caught too close to John." Connally is bitter about what he regards as disloyalty.

Connally's post-acquittal return to Texas amazed politicians there. When he appeared unannounced at the World Tennis matches in Dallas May 9, he received a standing ovation. The same thing happened when he showed in the State House of Representatives for the formal unveiling of the new state constitution.

But Connally's sights may be set higher than the U.S. Senate. He tells intimates he is interested in being President, but feels neither political party today speaks for the great mass of Americans, and talks vaguely about a "third force in politics."

LORD, GRANT ME PATIENCE, AND PLEASE HURRY!

Jim Bishop: Reporter

No Need for Confession

There was a little house on Fulton Avenue. It was made of lapstraked wood and wore a peaked green roof. All around were truck farms. It was in that house, in 1881, that Mary Murphy of Cork, Ireland, and Jim Bishop, of Ennisclorthy, Wexford, had their honeymoon.

Like most of the poor from Europe, the presence of God was the most important being under the roof. Everything good that happened was encapsulated in the phrase, "Thanks be to God." Mary was a slender girl who paid 20 pounds to spend six weeks in the forecastle of a sailing vessel.

Jim was five feet-seven no matter which way he was measured. He got a job firing a furnace at the Eagle Oil Works. He worked from dawn until sundown shoveling bituminous coal. Winter and summer, he wore work pants, heavy shoes and a red flannel undershirt.

He had black wavy hair and sideburns. His manner was mild, which pleased Mary. She left Ireland because there was no place for a young lady. He left because he saw no future working a 3-acre beet farm in Lower Scooby, divided among an assortment of brothers.

Jim Bishop could not dominate his independent Mary, so he persuaded, he coaxed, he flattered. On Saturdays, he invited three or four Irishmen to his home. They smoked white clay pipes and drank whiskey. They told endless frightening tales of the fairies and the little people of Ireland.

Such nights became rare when the babies arrived. The first, John Michael, arrived on October 29th, 1883. Mary took a look at him and asked a neighbor to have him christened at once. "He's a frail wan," she said. "He'll never make old bones."

She was wrong. My father lived to be 85. Then came Thomas the quiet. And after him Jim the Blarney Stone. Followed by Margaret and Mary. Life was unusually serene. It was as though no one could hear the approach of dark clouds.

Big Jim couldn't understand why, at times, he couldn't catch his breath. He had been shoveling coal too long. The little black diamonds coated his lungs. Some nights, when the breath left him and he begged for air on a bed, Mary knelt beside the bed and said her rosary.

There was no other medicine. Sometimes he begged for whiskey Johnny was roused from bed and given an empty pint bottle. "Go up to Jackson Avenue," his mother said, "and wake Mr. Moriarity and ask him for a pint of loose whiskey. Here's the 50 cents."

He ran. His father drank it in gulps, the whiskey running down the side of his mouth onto the bedclothes. In a few moments, he began to breathe deeply, evenly. "God's will be done," Mary said, and undressed for bed.

In 1895, diphtheria raced through Jersey City. It took the young like a sickle on spring grass. It was Christmas week. The snow was falling fat and lazy, on a windless day. Young Jim died. Within a few hours Margaret and Mary were dead.

Merry Christmas. The undertaker placed the bodies in three white caskets. Mary Bishop was stirring a pot of soup. She went inside, looked at each pale face and fell to her knees. "Thy will be done," she said. "If You grant me more children, I will name them after these."

She had two more girls. They too were Margaret and Mary. Her husband's health failed. The doctor said that maybe, just maybe, a year back in Ireland would help him. She saved every five-cent piece to send him home.

He spent a year among his brothers on the farm. But his attitude was melancholy. He returned to the United States. One morning, his older brother Thomas got out of bed and said, "Jim is dead. I saw his shadow on the bedroom wall."

Superstition. Old wives tales. But true. Jim was dead. His wife hurried down the street to the landlord of the little peaked roof house on Fulton Avenue. "My Jim is gone," she said. "I'll be a few days late with the rent. Tell your missus to please pass the word I'm taking in washing."

She was proud. She raised John and Tom, Margaret and Mary herself. When they grew up, she spurned every dollar they tried to give her. She ran a boardinghouse on Fifth Street off Erie.

Mary battled the world until she was 85. She won everything except the last engagement. On a cold January night, she found it difficult to breathe. Her daughter Margaret sent for a priest.

He bent over the old lady with stole and oils. "Now," she demanded, "who would be robbing a young man of his sleep on a night like this?" He said, "Shhh!" She smiled the wise smile. "And what, pray, would I have to confess, I ask you?" She died, chuckling.

LIFE TODAY

Paul Sturges' New A-Frame. . . Rural Self-Sufficiency Lesson

By Tobie Geertsema

Can a man's home still be his castle when he builds it with more than passing concern for energy conservation, recycling and other things ecological? Can a house remain a home when it incorporates such survival philosophies for the future as a Clivus Multrum, the Swedish composting waste treatment system, and Thriftchanger heat recovery fireplace?

It can when it's inventor and builder Paul Sturges' new A-Frame in Alligerville, a lesson in rural self-sufficiency. Sturges unveiled his just completed house overlooking the splashing waterfalls of the Peterskill last weekend at a party attended by the press and more than 200 other guests. It was probably the first "toilet party" in area history—but, then, this particular toilet was an ecological marvel like few others in use today.

In the upstairs bathroom of the attractive A-frame, Sturges has installed a "Swedish toilet" (invented over 30 years ago in Sweden and sold commercially in Scandinavia for 10 years). Its inventor prefers to call it "a self-contained system for the treatment of organic wastes." Unlike the flush toilet, which is responsible for about half the average household's water consumption, it wastes no water since it uses none. And it protects all bodies of water (lakes, rivers, oceans and ground water) from pollution from the waste products of toilet and kitchen by retaining them in a large container (in the Sturges house, this receptacle has been installed in a kitchen closet on the first floor). The system preserves valuable (and odorless) nutrients from the toilet's human waste and the kitchen disposal unit's garbage and scraps that are converted to a rich humus suitable for fertilizing gardens.

For the Sturges menage, the system makes incredibly good sense. The beautiful Peterskill has been a favorite swimming spot of the family for some 50 years—and the system assures that no raw sewage will ever pollute its clear, cool water.

Sturges will also save substantially on his water bill (a family of four with a flush toilet uses 100 gallons a day), and on his maintenance bill (the Clivus Multrum has no moving parts; needs no maintenance other than the elbow grease required to remove a few pails of humus a year from its compost container).

The other ecological product on display at the party (and it was a party at which Hudson River clear waters proponent and folksinger Pete Seeger sang, a blue grass band entertained, and a buffet dinner was served was a Thriftchanger heat recovery fireplace. The attractive stone fireplace in the A-frame's living room is more innovative than decorative. By recapturing and harnessing some of the heat that escapes up the chimney, it not only saves money on heating bills but helps to beat the energy crunch fuel shortage. The heat recovered is capable of warming an entire room or small house. Sturges himself invented the noiseless "heat exchangers," a series of small tubes that draw smoke and air from the fireplace and return them to the chimney outlet without use of fans or electricity.

Firewood instead of fuel oil, then, for big savings in electrical and gas consumption, and—again—those lower maintenance costs.

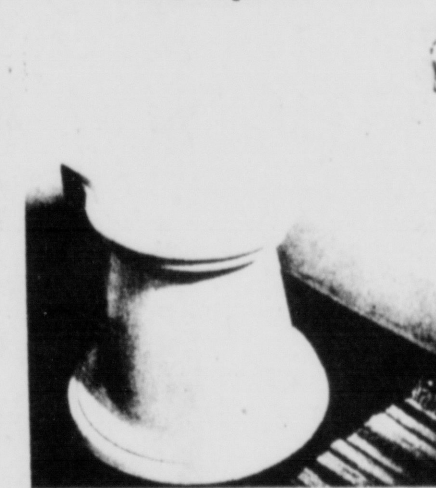

Obviously, ecology is all-important at the Sturges home on its mountain stream at Alligerville. It is one house that can boast of its own home "treatment plant" and its own heating alternative system.

Black Feminist: Specifics Key

By Dorothy A. Narel

In order for black women to join with white women in a stronger Feminist Movement, greater recognition must be given to disadvantages already imposed upon black women in contrast to advantages always enjoyed by whites.

This is what Black Feminist Margo Jefferson, associate editor of Newsweek and free lance writer, told a small gathering in the Woodstock Women's Center Thursday, June 5.

"Black and white women can be useful to each other if they get past an imbedded cultural distaste for each other," she said. The speaker also emphasized there must be a re-examination of the "white skin" and "class privilege" rules of society.

Ms. Jefferson, who has been active in the National Black Feminist Organization, feels the Feminist Movement will not work unless specifics of every woman's situation are taken into consideration. The areas: social, economical, religion, education, law and government.

She called for less theorizing and more action—"political action." She encourages "a greater concentration on such topics as capitalism vs. socialism; racism; oppression of children."

Ms. Jefferson emphasized the current trend to embrace mysticism within the Feminist Movement is "another cop-out." These women are not facing real issues according, she said.

In tracing the history of women's movements, Ms. Jefferson feels today's Feminists are "in the first personal." She feels women are relating only to themselves, not to the world as a whole. "Emphasis in the movement has become non-political," she said.

In attempting to unite black feminists with white, Ms. Jefferson pointed out that biologically and psychologically feminists have overlooked the extreme cultural differences that have kept these two groups apart. She described the work and status of the black slave woman who could not possibly emerge on the same level as her white sister for she was already oppressed through marriage to another slave. "The black man was not free," she said.

"Historically, there has been an overwhelming resentment to the white woman on an economic level. There is resentment doubly because these women (white) have all the privileges the blacks do not," she said.

Ms. Jefferson also contended that, on a working class level, it is theorized that blacks and whites should unite. What is not realized, she said, is that when black women, unable to get jobs, finally squeezed themselves into factories years ago, they were replaced by ethnic groups immigrating into this country. White women, on the other hand, advance using the "virtue, chastity and beauty system. Black women internalized these standards," she said. But the writer feels: "Physical and social rejection of black women is still going on."

Ms. Jefferson also touched upon the Black Nationalist Movement where the thrust was to "see if you can act in an African way. There was no way it could have worked," she said.

The associate editor also claimed there is a "power game" going on today as who is more oppressed. "This is the sort of friction that now exists between black women and Jewish women," she stated.

Ms. Jefferson concluded that for the Feminist Movement to weld both groups, all parts of the spectrum must be included. As for those Feminists advocating a matriarchal society, the speaker said:

"The closest thing to a matriarchal system today is the mother on welfare. Government is the patriarchy!"

The guest speaker also regards the push for more women priests and rabbis as "hopeless" and says NOW and NAACP both "have had former days of glory."

"The Feminist Movement must now stress political action and concentrate on basic issues. For instance, there now stands a 60 percent possibility that we will lose the abortion law," she said.

"Instead of talking," Ms. Jefferson admonished, "let's get on to something else. The movement must break out of this self-indulgence."

Ulster Garden Club . . . Bicentennial

Ulster Garden Club will sponsor a special plant sale, as a unique contribution to the celebration of the bicentennial, Wednesday, June 11, from 10 to 5 p.m. at the Academy Green.

House plants, herbs, shrubs, seedlings, annuals, perennials and ground covers will be available. Most are native to the area and of the type found in colonial gardens.

Ulster Garden Club has been responsible for the beautification of the Academy Green, a memorial tree fund and both the beautification and upkeep of the Senate House gardens.

The club's sale, the first in 20 years, will benefit the organization's civic planting project.

Ulster Academy Alumni

The steering committee of the alumni of Ulster Academy met recently to outline the coming year's program relative to its commitment to the community of charitable work. Members of the alumni interested in becoming involved may contact Elaine Weinberger for details.

Girl Staters Are Honored

Ulster County American Legion Auxiliary entertained the selectees for Empire Girl State at a dinner held at the Holiday Inn, Kingston. On hand for the event to orient the girls was Miss Vivien Glass, Girl Stater from last year. Members of the Ulster County Committee and parents of the girls were present.

The purpose of Empire Girl State is to develop and encourage informed, intelligent participation in governmental processes and to instill in the youthful leaders of tomorrow that such participation is both effective and vital to maintain the ideal of Democracy. Empire Girl State is held each year under the sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary. Sessions this year will be held at the State University of New York at Albany from June 27 to July 3.

Girls are selected to attend this citizenship workshop from this area's high schools. They have demonstrated qualities of leadership, character, honesty, scholarship, cooperativeness and have an interest and concern with community participation and in government.

Ulster County is represented by six girls from the following high schools; Kingston, Miss Nancy Lee Mahood; John A. Coleman, Miss Mary Beth Houck; Saugerties, Miss Mary Beth Wenger; Onteora, Miss Perri Lynn Parkes; Wallkill, Miss Alice Anne Crawford; Rondout Valley, Miss Elizabeth DeLeo.

Queen Ulster, 64, Anniversary Fete

The 69th anniversary of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge, 34, was celebrated June 3 during a meeting in Odd Fellows Temple in Saugerties.

A ceremony honoring all persons who have been members of Queen Ulster from 25 years through 66 years was held and each one present received a corsage and a gift. The Noble Grand read an appropriate poem during the program. Twenty-nine of 51 eligible members for this honor were on hand. Another highlight was the re-obligation ceremony.

Two new members were welcomed into the lodge during the anniversary program—one by transfer and the other by reinstatement.

An invitation was received from Olive Rebekah Lodge, 470, to attend the 45th anniversary program on June 11, with several members of Lodge 34 planning to attend. Several members of Queen Ulster also are planning to attend the 58th and 66th anniversary of Vineyard Rebekah Lodge, 522 and Sunshine Lodge, 929, on June 13 at the VFW Hall in New Paltz.

Refreshments, including a large decorated anniversary cake, followed the anniversary celebration meeting.

Harding Elected

Brian Harding of 248 Main Street, Kingston, was elected president of the Tzafon region—United Synagogue Youth—during the recent meeting held at Gibber's Hotel at Kiamasha Lake.

Tzafon is the upper New York State region of United Synagogue Youth, a branch of Conservative Judaism represented locally by Ahavath Israel synagogue.

Prior to his recent election as president, Harding was second vice-president of the region in 1974-75, newspaper editor in 1972-73 and president of the local chapter in 1973-74. He was awarded a commendation for editorial work in May 1973 and presented with the Jewish Youth Award for 1973 by the Kingston Kiwanis Club in recognition of his various activities, service and chairmanships in his local chapter. Harding is completing his junior year at Kingston High School and plans to attend the summer prep program at Syracuse University, taking pre-law courses.

Camerata Chorale Elects New Officers

The Camerata Chorale of the Mid-Hudson Valley has elected Anton Wellbrock of Poughkeepsie as its president.

Other officers include:

Mary Kelley, Wappingers Falls and Ruth Ann Maertens, Carmel, as vice-presidents. Mrs. Betty White of Hyde Park was re-elected as treasurer while Thomas Way of Poughquag, a new member of the board, was chosen as secretary.

Other board members include E. Stuart Hubbard, Donna Loomis and Philip Ewing, all of Poughkeepsie, and John Ayling, Mahopac.

The Camerata Chorale has planned a series of summer rehearsals which will culminate in a program in late September of lighter choral music including Brahms' Gypsy Songs, Opus 112 and Bartok's Slavic Folk Songs of 1917.

The Chorale will open its summer rehearsals to prospective members interested in auditioning for the regular season.

Rehearsals will continue Tuesday nights through June and every other Tuesday beginning July 1 through the remainder of the summer.

All rehearsals for the summer session will be at 8 p.m. Any singers wishing to join the summer activities or audition for the fall season may contact Mrs. Mary Kelley of Wappingers Falls. Rehearsal sites after June 10 may be obtained from Mrs. Kelley.

The Camerata also plans a Bicentennial concert featuring Alan Copland's Cantata In the Beginning, to be presented in late November.

MARGARET HEE-LENG TAN

In Paltz Summer Series

A series of summer concerts will be held on the campus of the State University College at New Paltz, beginning June 11 when Margaret Hee-Leng Tan will perform in McKenna Theatre, according to Dr. O. Lincoln Igou, chairman of the music department.

All programs in the series will be held Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Tan's program will include the Davids buendler Tazene of Robert Schumann, Bartok's Out of Doors Suite, and the Bach Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue, as well as works of Schubert and Chopin.

Born in Penang, Malaysia Margaret Hee-Leng Tan received her early musical training in Singapore with Lee Kum-Sing. At 16 she came to the United States as a scholarship student of Adele Marcus at the Juilliard School in New York, graduating with a Doctor of Musical Arts Degree in 1971. While at the Juilliard School she was the recipient of the Clara Wolff and Van Cliburn Alumni Association Scholarships. She has performed extensively in the Orient and eastern United States in recitals and chamber music performances and has participated in the Aspen and Eastern Music Festivals. Miss Tan currently resides in New York while continuing her studies with Dorothy Taubman.

Tickets for this and subsequent programs may be purchased at the theatre box office on the evening of the performance.

Martin Kelly (L), chairman of the second annual rose show sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Rose Society, meets with other members on plans for the Sunday, June 22, event. With Kelly in the usual order are Mrs. Mildred Greco, chairperson of arrangements; Dwight Mackey, chairman of schedules and awards; Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg, president of the Mid-Hudson Rose Society and Robert Keagle, co-chairman of the rose show. Entries for the June 22 show are due from 6:30 a.m. until 11 a.m. with public viewing set for 2 to 7 p.m. at the Inter-County Savings Bank, 29 Main Street, New Paltz. (Freeman photo.)

Welcome Wagon Workshop Speaker

Greater Kingston Welcome Wagon Club will meet for supper Tuesday, June 10, at the Bonanza Branch of the Heritage Savings Bank on Route 9W at 7 p.m. Those members desiring to donate foods should contact Mrs. Irene Mikesch of West Hurley. Mrs. Rubin of Home Decorators Workshop will be guest speaker and installation of officers will be held.

Greater Kingston Welcome Wagon Club helps newcomers become an intricate part of the community both socially and civically. Monthly meetings allow club members to hear interesting speakers and to mingle with other new residents.

Club members also serve the community through volunteer work at the Ulster County Infirmary, Red Cross, Cerebral Palsy Thrift Center and conduct Amblyopia screening of pre-school children.

Annual donations are made to charitable organizations by the club. This year $2,300 was presented to the Ulster County Association for Retarded Children.

All newcomers are invited to attend. Area hostesses are Mrs. Eleanor Selzo and Mrs. Rita Kafer.

DEAR ABBY: I had the same problem "OUT IN THE BOONDOCKS" had. My husband deserted me, and I wanted to get married again but couldn't locate my husband to divorce him. On the advice of my lawyer, I put an ad in the newspaper asking my husband to please contact me. It ran for three weeks without results, so I went ahead, divorced him and married the other man.

It's been 12 years now and I still haven't heard from my "ex" and neither has his family. However, when I wanted to declare him legally dead so my children could collect his Social Security and I could collect his life insurance, I was advised that my "ex" was still paying into his Social Security, which meant he is still alive!

But (get this!) the law is protecting that bum by refusing to let me know the location from which he is paying. How about that?

DESERTE

DEAR DESERTE: Social Security data are confidential. The law is very democratic. Even "bums" have rights.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 75-year-old widow in excellent health, am very independent and am enjoying a full life. Two years ago, my brother lost his wife and came to make his home with me. He is 86. We are of the Jewish faith.

A cousin of ours invited my brother to the first seder (a religious dinner) at her home. However, she did not invite me! I know why, too. She has a new boyfriend and was afraid that if he saw me, he might like me more than her. (This cousin is 70 and is also a widow.)

I felt bad because this might be the last seder I could spend with my brother.

Do you think it was very nice of our cousin to invite my brother and not me? (He didn't want to go without me, but I insisted!)

STAYED HOME

DEAR STAYED: No. But on the brighter side, it's a compliment that at age 75, your charm and personality poses a threat to a woman five years your junior.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound crazy, but I need your advice. I am divorced and the mother of a sweet, 4-year-old boy named Ronnie.

We were at home recently when an armed intruder confronted us. The man was gentle and he quickly put Ronnie at ease. He wanted only money and promised not to hurt us. We both explained to Ronnie that Mommy would have to be tied up for a while. He seemed to understand.

After I was bound and gagged, Ronnie was told to turn the TV on and when the program was over (about 20 minutes) he could help me or call for help. I was taken to another room and the robber left.

Abby, my son spent the next THREE HOURS watching TV while I was bound and utterly helpless. I finally managed, for? The kid didn't get the picture—except on TV.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Alive and Well, And Collects through the gag, to tell him to go next door for help.

Could Ronnie possibly have some hostility toward me? Should I see a psychologist? Please answer.

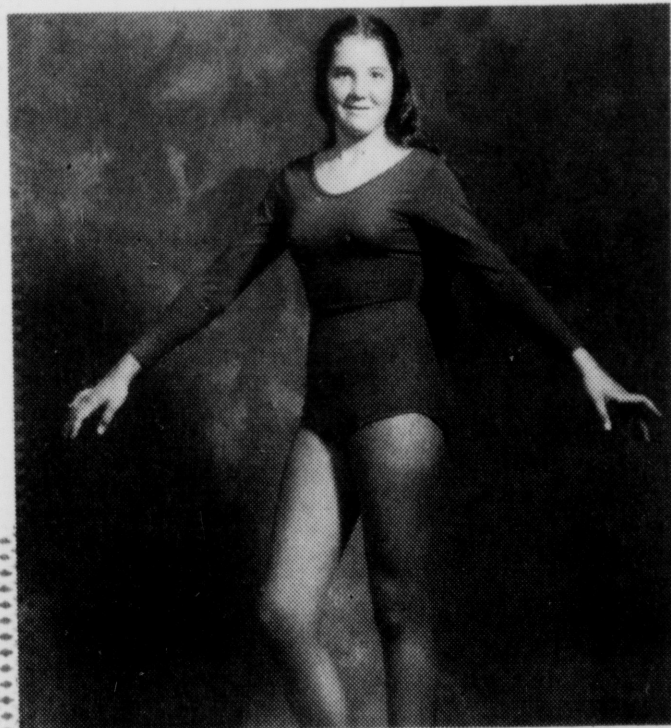

TIED UP
DEAR TIED: From your description of the way the intruder put Ronnie at ease and "explained" that you would have to be tied up for a while, the boy obviously felt no urgency about getting help or setting you free. Psychologist? Hostility? What Did You Know?

JoAnne Carner Sets Sights on $100,000 Goal

By Ira Fusfeld

PINE PLAINS

JoAnne Carner's immediate goal is to repeat as leading money winner on the LPGA tour, but more than that she's eager to be its first $100,000 winner.

The odds of the latter happening this year are slight, but the 36-year-old Washington State native went a long way towards picking up back-to-back $ champ honors Sunday when she breezed to a six-stroke victory in the $50,000 Girl Talk Classic at Carvel Farms Sports City.

Mrs. Carner fired a six-under par 213 for 54 holes, wrapping up the wire-to-wire triumph with a 73, thus picking up two strokes on the field the final afternoon.

The win, her second in the last three weeks, and 11th of her career, was worth $7,000 to 1974's Player of the Year and upped her season's earnings to just over $31,900. Last year she set an LPGA record with a total of $87,094 in earnings.

Sandra Palmer, who was in a ninth place tie here, leads the current standings with $48,800 most of that picked up at the rich Colgate-Dinah Shore winners circle event.

"I'm creeping up there," Mrs. Carner smiled, shortly after her ho-hum clinching round. "I'd really like to be the leading money winner. Arnie Palmer was the first man to do it," she noted pausing to that sink in, then adding, "it's always nice to be the first."

Mrs. Carner admits the chances are slim for this year, but with LPGA purses increasing and her game getting better and better the time is drawing near.

She's certainly the hottest player on the circuit right now and she knows why.

"I've worked hard on the little wedge," she explained. "I started a couple of weeks ago and it's save me. It's called the R-90—it looks like an old wood shaft—and I take it and learn it until I can get the ball within six feet of the ole. It's a specialty club."

What made the R-90 so important in this tournament was that Mrs. Carner was outdriving everyone else on the course and putting everything near the cup in the ole.

"This was an ideal course for me," she said of the long, wet 6,187-yard Sports City layout that gave most of her compatriots so much trouble all week. "I was born and raised on a course like this in Seattle—in fact it was even hillier than this one. And today my putting was unbelievable."

It was her putting, in fact, that erased any possible doubt of the outcome of the tournament.

Entering the final round with a four-shot lead over Sandra Spuzich (the eventual runner-up) with 75-219, Mrs. Carner met par on the first hole, then rolled in a 40-footer for a birdie-three on the 370-yard second.

"I had a feeling I had it won right there," she conceded. Later she put in short putts on No. 4 and No. 13 for birds, and on No. 12 she connected on a 60-footer from just off the green for yet another.

"I had a cold and a splitting headache and I told my caddy it must be helping me," she laughed.

In all, the five-time U.S. Amateur champ had seven one-putt greens on the first 13 holes before limping in with a pair of bogies over the last five. By then she had admittedly relaxed.

"I try not to let up but I always do," is the way she explained

it. "But I'm playing as well now as I ever have."

About the only goal Mrs. Carner had Sunday other than polishing off her easy victory, was shooting a third straight sub-par round. When she birdied two of the first four holes, "it took the pressure off of me."

"I had been watching for those first four—those were the ones I had been having trouble with—after those I'm on to my birdie holes. But then I relaxed." Her 73 was even par.

Mrs. Carner didn't need to apologize. She was clearly the class of this tournament and should continue to do well, starting her this week in the Lawson's Classic in Medina, Ohio.

"Gardner Dickinson's theory is 'if you're going good don't take a week off. Don't get off the gravy train,'" she pointed out. Dickinson, the veteran PGA tourist, was one of Mrs. Carner's early mentors.

So JoAnne Carner will move on to another city, eager to regain the money winnings lead and hopeful of being the LPGA's first $100,000 queen. And she's odds-on to do both.

BIRDIES. . . Sunday's best round was turned in by 6-3 Carol Mann, the LPGA president, whose one-under 72 gave her a total of 222, and third place tie with Sue Roberts. Mann had been critical of the course earlier in the week but apparently was beginning to solve it as the tourney ended. . . . Steady Jane Blalock, talented rookie Amy Alcott, Canadian Jocelyn Bourassa, and Sharon Miller were next at 223. Judy Rankin, Chako Higuchi, Sandra Palmer, and Betty Burfeindt had 224s. The latter, a Columbia County girl, four-putted No. 14 for a double bogey and bogied the 18th to blow her chances for an extra $2,000. . . . Sunday's weather was dry for a change but it was cool and windy. The temperature was 58 degrees when the first group teed off and while the afternoon sun helped, the unusual crispness made for an uncomfortable day for the everyone. . . . Final day gallery was estimated at 1,500, far below expectations, as were the crowds the rest of the week. The weather was the chief reason, of course, and that was unfortunate since a true barometer on the drawing power of the ladies in this area couldn't be accurately measured. . . . "I think all the girls liked it here," offered Mrs. Carner, Rookie of the Year in 1970. "It took a while for some of them because we had just come from playing in a couple of big cities. Our galleries are usually bigger, but the rain killed everything." . . . Mrs. Carner remarked that the LPGA's current stops are "500 percent better than they used to be. We used to play on some dogs." . . . Laura Baugh, or Lovely Laura as she's called by the girl watchers in the field, wasn't in contention when the day started, played her worst round of tournament (an 82), yet still attracted a some two dozen hearty fans. . . . Had the same people watched either Jan Stephenson or Mary Cushing they would have seen beauty and good golf. . . . Whether or not the tournament will return here next year hasn't been decided, but one official didn't express much optimism. . . . There were the usual problems connected with putting on a first-time event tournament, but several spectators were particularly annoyed at the absence of player identification on the course. There were no leader boards and jacketed caddies covered the golfers' names on their backs. If you didn't recognize someone you had to strain to read her golf bag.

Holtzman, Palmer Know the Feeling

Saddest One-Hitter

Even though Ken Holtzman (2nd from L) pitched a one-hit game against the Detroit Tigers Sunday, there does not seem to be much jubilation after the game. Oakland center fielder Bill North apparently misjudged a fly ball in the ninth inning, and it fell for a double to leave Holtzman one strike short of his third career no-hitter. Petty Shatters Jinx RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Before Sunday's Tuborg 400, stock car king Richard Petty said he didn't think he was battling any kind of a jinx in West Coast races.

Then he went out and proved it.

Petty ended a string of 12 straight losses in California by outdueling archrival Bobby Allison, the pre-race favorite, by 9.4 seconds for his seventh victory in 14 NASCAR Grand National races this year.

Typically, the popular veteran from Randleman, N.C., wanted to share the credit.

"I won this one in the pits," he explained. "My crew wanted to beat those AMC boys (the Allison crew) real bad. The two crews are very competitive. Believe me, their crew will hear about this until we come to California again."

At 37, Petty has a leg up on his sixth NASCAR driving title, holding a bulging 436-point lead in the Winston Cup point standings with 16 races left this year. His 171st career Grand National win was worth $14,885 and that left him just $37,727 shy of becoming the first man in his sport to win $2 million.

Petty, in his red and blue STP Dodge, and Allison, in his red, white and blue American Motors Matador, raced virtually by themselves all day Sunday. Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills, Calif., driving a Chevrolet, was the only other leader and he dropped out on the 56th lap with a blown head gasket.

As the superstar from North Carolina said, his six-man crew won it for him. The statistics proved him right.

Each man made six pit stops but Petty's lasted for only a total of one minute and 59.1 seconds. Allison was in for two minutes and 22.5 seconds.

"Our stops were just so much better than Bobby's today," the winner noted. "My crew really put him at a disadvantage."

"This certainly wasn't the best car I've ever raced here. In fact, Bobby and I were pretty even. I could outrun him when there was no traffic, but he could outrun me when there was."

Winner of the Western Winston 500 at Riverside in January, Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., was favored because he set a Tuborg record in winning the pole in Friday's qualifying at 110.753 miles an hour. Petty started second after checking in at 109.530 m.p.h.

In the January race, Allison led all but 17 of the 194 laps. It wasn't even close.

"We ran with the same setup we had in January," Petty said. "We didn't feel we could outrun Bobby in practice in qualifying. We wanted to save the engine and brakes for the race."

Petty, who averaged 101.029 m.p.h. over Riverside's demanding 2.62-mile road course, had not won in California since capturing the Winston Western 500 in January, 1972. He'd lost six stock car races and four International Race of Champions at Riverside and two stock car events at Ontario, Calif.

And he insisted the $2 million goal was not important to him.

"My real goal is just to do better today than I did yesterday," he said.

The Grand National drivers will be at Irish Hills, Mich., next Sunday for the Motor State 400 and then they're off until the July 4 Firecracker 400 at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Ken Holtzman and Jim Palmer, who know the ecstasy of no-hit glory and the agony of just missing it, had the same reaction Sunday when they didn't get the necessary smile from Lady Luck.

Both took it with the grace of seasoned pros.

Holtzman, who had pitched two no-hitters while with the Chicago Cubs, was one strike away from becoming the sixth pitcher in baseball history to achieve three when Tom Verzyer doubled in the ninth inning of the Oakland A's 4-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Centerfielder Bill North seemed, from the press box, to break slowly on the ball, but both Holtzman and North denied it after the game.

Palmer, who pitched a no-hitter in 1969, yielded a fourth-inning single to Hal McRae and finished with the third one-hitter of his career as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Kansas City Royals 1-0. Palmer, who has won three 1-0 games this season, leads the American League with a 1.55 earned run average.

"You have to have a lot of luck to pitch a no-hitter, so I can't get upset about what happened," said Holtzman. "I feel pleased that I have already pitched two no-hitters. How many guys can say that?"

"If I could have caught it, I would have," said North, referring to Verzyer's double. "I just didn't get to the ball. I didn't think it would go that far. I don't think any other centerfielder in baseball could have caught it."

"When you're winning 1-0 you have to concentrate on making pitches that will stay in the park," said Palmer, now 9-3 after a 7-12 record in 1974. "I wasn't worrying about a no-hitter. I was just trying to win."

The 29-year-old Holtzman, acquired by the A's in 1971, had yielded only a walk—wiped out in a double play—and faced the minimum number of batters until Verzyer's hit. The victory raised Holtzman's season mark to 5-6, somewhat deceptive inasmuch as he has pitched in bad luck. All the A's runs came on a pair of homers by Claudell Washington—a solo shot in the fifth and a three-run drive in the seventh.

Brooks Robinson, batting only .195 but tough in the clutch, drove in the only run of the game for the Orioles in the seventh inning. Steve Busby pitched a four-hitter and struck out five, but suffered his fifth setback against seven wins for the Royals.

The New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-1, the Minnesota Twins beat the Boston Red Sox 7-5, the Texas Rangers scored a 7-6 victory in 17 innings after losing the first game of their doubleheader to the Cleveland Indians 3-2, and the Milwaukee Brewers topped the California Angels 4-3 in other AL games.

Yankees 4 White Sox 1

George Medich received credit for his fifth win with 1 2-3 innings of relief help from Sparky Lyle as the Yankees won their eighth straight game. The key hits for the Yankees were a double by Elliott Maddox, and singles by Thurman Munson and Chris Chambliss. Jim Kaat was the White Sox' loser.

Twins 7 Red Sox 5

The Twins scored six runs in the top of the ninth inning to snap a 1-1 tie and then survived a four-run Boston rally in the last of the frame to snap their seven-game losing streak and the Red Sox' four-game winning skein. Tom Burgeimer finally retired the Red Sox in the ninth to preserve the win for Dave Goltz. Dick Pole was the loser.

Rangers 2-7 Indians 3-6

John Ellis' two-run double capped a three-run fourth inning which enabled Cleveland rookie Eric Raich to pick up his second major league victory in the opener. The Rangers won the marathon nightcap when Lenny Randle singled home Jeff Burroughs with the winning run in the 17th inning. Ellis, Randle, Burroughs, George Hendrick and Jim Fregosi homered in the game.

Brewers 4 Angels 3

Darrell Porter, hitting .191 at game time, drove in all four Milwaukee runs with a homer and a single enabling Jim Colborn to win his first game of the season. Tom Murphy pitched the last three innings for the Brewers, earning his 10th save. Ed Figueroa lost his second game for California.

Big Red Machine Rolling in High Gear

By FRED McMANE

UPI Sports Writer

The Big Red Machine is clicking on all cylinders now that the two vital parts of the mechanism are functioning as a unit again.

Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, the two primary catalysts in the Cincinnati Reds' arsenal, joined forces for the first time in two weeks Sunday and delivered most of the clout as the Reds swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, 2-1 and 8-5, to move a game and a half in front of Los Angeles in the National League West.

Bench drilled a two-run homer, his 13th of the season, in the seventh inning to give the Reds and Gary Nolan a victory in the opener, and Perez, starting for the first time since suffering a chipped bone in his thumb on May 15, singled twice and homered while driving in three runs in the nightcap.

The twin-victory gives the Reds 16 victories in their last 19 games and 22 triumphs in 27 games this season at Riverfront Stadium.

Perez' three-hit spurge in the second game came after he went hitless, striking out twice, in three at-bats in the opener.

"In the first game," said Perez "I think I pick the wrong guy to come back against."

Perez referred to Rick Reuschel who was working on a one-hit shutout when Bench homered.

"I swing at too many bad pitches in that first game," said Tony. "The second game—three hits, one homer—make me feel good."

Perez not only tattooed Cub pitching in the second game, but he also starred in the field, making a diving back-handed grab of Manny Trillo's sinking liner in the sixth inning.

In other National League games, San Francisco took a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 3-1 and 4-2; Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 4-2; San Diego downed Montreal 5-2 then lost 3-1; St. Louis beat Houston 5-1 and New York edged Atlanta 7-6 in 14 innings.

New York defeated Chicago 4-1, Milwaukee nipped California 4-3, Oakland blanked Detroit 4-0, Baltimore edged Kansas City 1-0, Minnesota topped Boston 7-5 and Cleveland downed Texas 3-2 then lost 7-6 in 17 innings in American League action.

Giants 3-4, Pirates 1-2

Chris Speier knocked in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly to support Ed Halicki's five-hit pitching as the Giants

"I ran it up the hill, down the valley and around the corner," Floyd said of the 100-foot clincher shot. "I was amazed to see it go in; I think I reached the hole in four steps."

The victory, which netted Floyd $50,000, was his first since the 1969 PGA championship and ended a six-year drought, which he said was partly due to his immaturity as a golfer.

"After I won the PGA, I had achieved a goal I had set for myself," said Floyd. "Unfortunately, I didn't set any more goals."

"I've matured a lot since 1969. My wife and I had a little chat last year and I changed my mental attitude. I realized that I couldn't sit around and just wait for the slump to end; I had to go out and work at it."

Floyd, who came within one shot of the course record at Quail Hollow Country Club in Thursday's first round, finished Sunday with a three-under-par 69 and a four-round total of 10under 278.

Player, playing in only his eighth U. S. tournament this year, started the day one stroke ahead of Floyd and two others. But the South African could not muster a charge and finished with a one-over-par 73 and a 72hole total of 281.

Mahaffey, whose best finish this year was second in the Memphis Classic, had three early birdies and caught Floyd and Player at eight-under after seven holes. But he had an unspectacular back nine and finished with a two-under 70 and 281.

Jerry Heard finished fourth at six-under 282. Peter Oosterhuis, Bob Murphy and Jim Masserio tied for fifth at fiveunder 283.

It was apparent that changes intended to toughen the 7,160yard Quail Hollow course were effective. Only 25 of the 75 golfers finished below par, a sharp contrast to last year when the cut after two rounds was two below par.

Rogers scattered nine hits to even his record at 4-4 to gain Montreal a split.

Cardinals 5, Astros 1

Ted Simmons smacked a two-run double and Reggie Smith added a two-run homer to lead the Cardinals to their sixth straight triumph. Ron Reed notched his second straight triumph since being acquired from Atlanta, allowing only one run in 7 2-3 innings.

Mets 7, Braves 6

Felix Millan led off the 14th inning with a single, moved to third when centerfielder Clarence Gaston dropped Joe Torre's fly for a two-base error and scored the winning run on a wild pitch by Elias Sosa to give the Mets a victory over the Braves. Torre, extending his hitting streak to 15 games, collected four hits for the Mets and drove in three runs. Rod Gilbreath homered for Atlanta.

By CHRIS SCHERF
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — At 13-1 odds, Avatar apparently surprised quite a few people in winning Saturday's 107th running of the Belmont Stakes. But his trainer Tommy Doyle was not one of them. Not that Doyle underestimated Avatar's rivals in the third leg of the Triple Crown, which included Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure and Preakness victor Master Derby.

crop of 3-year-olds. Entering the Kentucky Derby and the Triple Crown grind, Foolish Pleasure, Master Derby, Avatar, Diabolo and Prince Thou Art appeared the class of the crop. Three races later, they had lived up to their reputations.

In Saturday's 1 1/2-mile classic, those five took the top five spots, just as they had dominated the Kentucky Derby and Preakness. Consistency, a sign of excellence in horse racing, was the trademark of the class of '75.

"He (Avatar) could be as good a colt as I've ever ridden," Willie Shoemaker said after guiding Arthur Seeligion's chestnut colt to a neck victory over Foolish Pleasure, with Master Derby third and Diabolo fourth.

With more than 6,000 career winners, Shoemaker obviously has ridden some fair-to-middlin' horses, too.

One breeding expert, more than just a little impressed with the Belmont field of nine, called it probably the richest race ever run in terms of stallion value. Envisioning the day when this field of 3-year-olds would be syndicated and put to stud, he estimated the value of the field at between $12 million and $15 million. Not only have their Triple Crown races been impressive, but their ancestry includes the nobility of the sport.

However, more important to the welfare of horse racing, Foolish Pleasure, Master

Derby and Avatar are not headed for early retirement and stallion service. When he was asked if he had syndicated or made plans to syndicate Avatar, Seeligion said, "No. He's had a tough campaign and we may have to rest him awhile." But Seeligion promised Avatar would continue his racing career for awhile.

Avatar turned in the fifth fastest time in Belmont history, 2:28.1, in capturing the $116,160 winner's purse for Seeligion. Overlooked by the bettors, Avatar paid $28.40, $8.00 and $5.00. Foolish Pleasure, the 6-5 favorite, paid $3.20 and $2.60, while Master Derby showed at $5.20. The Avatar-Foolish Pleasure exacta paid $104.40.

Avatar's victory, in which he took the lead from Master

Derby at the 3-16ths pole and then held off a late charge by Foolish Pleasure, resurrected memories of the Kentucky Derby when two collisions with Diabolo threw Avatar off stride late in the stretch as Foolish Pleasure raced by for the victory.

Suddenly, the question arose as to whether Avatar also could have held off Foolish Pleasure in the Derby if it hadn't been for the bumping. Doyle said, "I don't think it's fair to detract from the winner of the Kentucky Derby."

But Shoemaker and Seeligion each said Avatar could have won had it not been for the bumping. They believe they have the best of what's been proved to be an outstanding crop of 3-year-olds.

Clearwater Sets Pace

KINGSTON
Dave Clearwater tripled in the seventh inning and scored on Jim Benton's single to give Hurley Mt. Inn a 5-1 lead over Rolling Acres in the AA Division of the City Slo Pitch League Sunday.

That was just enough for the Mountaineers to hang on to a 5-4 victory as a three-run rally by Rolling Acres fell short.

Bill Norieka tripled and doubled to pace Pier Seven No. 1 to a 7-5 win over Sea Deli.

In other games, The Place scored five runs in the sixth ing enroute to a 10-4 win over Mago's. Steve Englehart homered for the losers.

Sawchuck's score was .910 and earned him the fourth position. In fifth place was Tom Grossi at .900, Art Smith fired .893, and Harold DePew shot .885. Rounding out the top ten were Phil Moore and Bob Schmuck at .880 and Fred Faerber at .870.

LITTLE LEAGUE

ESOPUS

Joe Mendock of the Hercules Braves and Mike Maroney of the Port Ewen Fire Department Giants matched serves in the Town of Esopus Little League, and the result couldn't have been much closer.

Mendock's two-hitter beat Maroney's four-hitter, 2-1. Each hurler struck out seven batters and neither walked a man in the six inning duel.

Mendock slapped a double off his opponent and along with teammate Andre Lyons scored a run in the first inning. The game got closer in the fourth when Maroney blasted a homer for the Giants' lone score, but that's the way it ended.

PGA Tryouts In Florida

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI) —

A field of 233 golfers begins competing today in the 1975 PGA Tournament Players Division qualifying school for the right to play as PGA touring professionals.

By the time the six rounds are over at Bay Tree Plantation Saturday, only about 20 golfers will have earned tour credentials. Cuts are scheduled after the second and fourth rounds.

To prevent marginal players from entering, the qualifying fee was raised to $300 this year. In previous years, the PGATPD held regional qualifying rounds and national finals.

"The $300 qualifying fee under the new proposal was slight compared to what previous entrants had to raise in hopes of qualifying," said TPD Commissioner Deane Beman.

"We cut off two qualifying site expenses. The fee covers the cost of administering the competition, and we do offer a purse. We had a shocking number (450) last year despite the cost. Had we lowered the cost to, say, $50, we could not have handled the numbers. Then we would have had to make judgments on who could play on the records they had established. We did not want to be in that position."

Entrants coming from 38 states and five foreign countries will find that the 7,074-yard green and 7,130-yard gold courses have been toughened for the school. Fairways are more narrow, the rough is thicker and the approaches to the greens are heavier.

Braves' Gallo and Cole Combine on No-Hitter

MARLBORO

Pitching was expected to be the strong suit of the Kingston Braves this year in the Hudson Valley American Legion Rookie League, and Sunday's opener against the Marlboro Jets just reinforced that belief.

Veteran Tom Gallo and youngster Tim Cole combined to fire a nohitter to ease Kingston to a 7-1 win over the host club.

Gallo surrendered only an unearned run in the first inning, and Cole picked up seven strikeouts in three innings of relief.

The Braves tied the game with an unearned run off loser Kevin Kelly in the second inning and went ahead for keeps in the fourth when Larry Panella's single and Skip Lyons' bunt scored Gallo who had reached base on an error.

Kingston finally opened up a comfortable lead in the late innings driving Kelly from the mound in defeat. In the sixth an error and a walk set the stage for George Wallach who rapped the first of his two RBI singles. Charlie Mazzola and Tom Whitaker also earned free passes to force in another run.

Wallach drove in Dan Brown in the seventh to cap a three-run rally by the Braves. Rich Koegel led off with a walk and moved up on Gallo's single. Koegel later scored as Cole forced Panella at second. Brown's single chased Cole across.

Kelly, from Brockport State, was relieved by Vin Mannese in the seventh.

The Braves will try out the rest of their pitching staff Wednesday at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie when they take on the defending champion Lasers. Kingston's home opener will be at Dietz Stadium Thursday night also against Poughkeepsie.

Texas-El's Victory No Fluke

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Nobody can say Texas-El Paso's NCAA track and field title dropped into the Miners' hands because favored Southern California and UCLA blew it.

The Miners, since the arrival of coach Ted Banks two years ago, reached full bloom as winners of collegian track Saturday night—winning the NCAA track and field title to go with their indoor collegiate crown.

"We gave up as many points as anyone," said Banks. "But we still won it. It's nice to have both major titles in one year."

UTEP scored 55 team points in the week-long meet, and then watched from the sidelines through the final eight events while the frustrated Bruins and Trojans failed to get the points they needed to catch the Miners.

The victory was UTEP's third national title in two years. They had won both the 1974 and 1975 indoor meets.

They were also sixth in last year's NCAA outdoor meet.

"I was real concerned when we lost our high jumper Thursday night," Banks said. "But on Friday we balanced things out with a one-two finish in the shot put and two placings in the hammer."

"Some of the other teams fell down on our projected performances for them, but then we had a couple of kids who could have scored more too."

Banks' team—dominated by foreign track stars—got two firsts, three second place finishes and a third as they scored 55 points to only 42 for UCLA, 37 for USC and 32 for surprising San Jose State. Kansas was fifth with 27, defending champion Tennessee and Oregon tied with 24, and host Brigham Young had 21 1/2.

But while the Miners got a meet record 70-foot shot put from Hans Hoglund of Sweden and a steeplechase victory from Kenyan James Munyala, NCAA indoor high jump champion Greg Joy stumbled on his last attempt to qualify at 6-11, fell beneath the bar and was dropped from the competition when the judges ruled his fall a jump attempt.

The Miners also lost points when defending hammer champion Pete Farmer of Australia and NCAA indoor triple jump titlist Arnold Grimes—both heavy favorites—finished second.

Another foreign athlete—Kenyan distance runner John Ngeno—shared the show with the Miners as he took the spotlight late Friday and Saturday nights for a tremendous double.

The 5-10 Ngeno turned both distance races into one-man shows, repeating as the NCAA 6-mile king Friday night and then easily taking the 3-mile croan Saturday night from 1974 champion Paul Geis of Oregon.

Ngeno was one of 11 defending champions returning to the meet. But he was the only one to repeat.

Hoglund's 70-foot shot put made him the second longest collegian ever, next to Randy Matson of Texas A&M. But Hoglund easily bettered Matson's meet record of 67-9 1/4, also set in BYU Stadium.

Hoglund's performance may have been unexpected, but teenager Earl Bell's collegiate record 18-1 pole vault shocked everyone—even the Arkansas State vaulter whose previous lifetime best had been 17-8.

The 19-year-old Bell made it on his second attempt, beating world indoor record holder

Dan Ripley of San Jose State on fewer misses. Ripley also cleared 18-1, but on his third try. The two were a half inch above the old mark held by Steve Smith of Long Beach State and Jan Johnson of Alabama.

Bell, Hoglund, Ngeno in the 3-mile, and Mark Enyeart of Utah State and Villanova's Eamonn Coughlan all took out-door crowns after winning the NCAA indoor title in the same event at Detroit earlier this year.

1/3 OFF POLYGLAS White Letter or White Stripe

Custom Wide Tread Polyglas

Choose raised white letters or white stripe—either way, you're getting a performance tire. The Custom Wide Tread Polyglas incorporates Goodyear race tire technology, adapted for street use. This explains the low profile, bias-belted construction, low cord angles in the carcass, wraparound reverse-molded tread, and even the competition-style raised white letters. You'll appreciate the way this wide tread handles too—with its big seven-rib tread that really grabs hold on corners and curves. For three days only, you can get this impressive performer at a very impressive discount. Check it out now.

Obituaries

Donald Morris Dies,
Pharmacist, Writer

KINGSTON
Donald C. Morris, 62, of 229 Main Street, Kingston, died June 7 at Benedictine Hospital.

Born in this city, he graduated from the local high school; was a 1937 graduate of Albany Pharmacy School. He had more recently obtained certification as a clinical pharmacist; had contributed a series of articles on pharmaceutical information to the Daily Freeman, the last of which appeared the day before his death.

He was a member of St.

George's Greek Orthodox Church, and a veteran of World War 2. He had enlisted in the U.S. Army shortly after Pearl Harbor and, within less than six months, had attained the rank of second lieutenant. He served in the South Pacific more than two years; was with the first waves of troops in landings on Okinawa, Iwo Jima and other islands.

During the Korean War, he served as captain in front line trenches; retired from the Army as a lieutenant colonel after serving in various European countries as a major. Most of his working career as a pharmacist was spent in Jamestown before returning to Kingston in 1969 due to ill health.

Surviving are his wife, Pota Fonda Morris; a sister, Mrs. Max Bruggmann of Woodstock; two step-brothers: Robert D. Delaney of Kingston, Charles W. Delaney of Satellite Beach, Fla.; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Elly Morris of New Port News, Va.; several nieces and nephews, several great nieces and great nephews.

Funeral services will be held at St. George's Greek Orthodox Church, Greenkill Avenue, Wednesday 10 a.m. Burial will be in Graceland Cemetery, Albany. Friends may call at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Tuesday 2-4 and 7-9.

FUNERAL NOTICES

DONNARUMA—Gertrude M., R.N. (nee Olewine) of 40 Valentine Avenue on June 8, 1975. Wife of Robert A. Donnaruma, mother of Mrs. Mary Tomassini, Robert C. and John R. Donnaruma, sister of Mrs. Ellarae Gregg and Mrs. Ramona Gallietta, niece of Mrs. Ella Doremus, eight grandchildren and several nieces and nephews also survive.

Funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue, Wednesday at 9:15 a.m.; thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 10 a.m. a Mass of the Christian Burial will be sung. Burial in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call Tuesday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

HINSDALE—William of 48 Mountain View Avenue, Hurley, on June 7, 1975. Husband of Mrs. Maureen Ann Hinsdale, father of Kimberly and William Hinsdale, brother of Mrs. Margaret Christiansa. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Funeral services will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue, Tuesday at 11 a.m. Burial in Hurley Cemetery. Friends may call this evening 7 to 9 p.m.

KELLEY—At rest June 8, 1975. Rose Dondero Kelley, 195 Albany Avenue, Kingston, Mother of John H. Kelley, aunt of Mrs. James (Marie) Amendola, cousin of Esther and Ann Rovegno. Also surviving is a sister, Ann. Funeral services were held Saturday 1 p.m. at the Buono Funeral Service Chapel, 100 Main Street, Saugerties. Burial was in Chatham Center Cemetery. Memorial donation may be made to the Saugerties Reformed Church Building Fund.

MORRIS—In this city, June 7, 1975. Donald C. Morris of 229 Main Street, husband of Pota Fonda Morris, brother of Mrs. Max Bruggmann of Woodstock, stepbrother of Robert D. Delaney of Kingston and Charles W. Delaney of Satellite Beach, Fla., brother-in-law of Mrs. Elly Morris of Newport News, Va., several nieces and nephews, several great nieces and great nephews also survive.

Funeral services will be held at St. George's Greek Orthodox Church, Greenkill Avenue on Wednesday at 10 a.m. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street on Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Interment in Graceland Cemetery, Albany, N.Y.

PHILLIPS—Entered into rest June 9, 1975. Miss Elsie J. Phillips of Stony Run Apt., sister of Mrs. Marion P. Woolsey. Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Jensen & Deegan Funeral Home Inc., 15 Downs Street.

Memorial
In loving memory of my husband, James Adamo, who passed away four years ago today, June 9, 1971.

Steve Conti Declares
For Highway Post

TOWN OF ULSTER
Steve Conti of Dogwood Street has become the first announced candidate for the position of highway superintendent, being vacated by Edgar Elliott who announced his resignation after 18 years on the job last week.

Elliott's announcement came on the heels of reports that the county district attorney's office was investigating certain "irregularities" in the highway department.

Conti offered little comment on the current reports surrounding the highway department, stating only, "It's an election year and I'm sure things will be brought up." He said Elliott's resignation "came as a complete surprise to me. I don't really know what it's all about."

Conti, in announcing his candidacy, noted that he has been a resident of the town for some 17 years. He operates his own contracting firm—Steve Conti Explosives—and has been a member of the New York State Association of Highway Contractors for several years.

He describes himself as a "fiscal conservative" and called for belt tightening during the oney crunch while at the same time increasing services to outlying areas of the township in connection with storm drainage problems.

He praised the current snow removal operation and pledged a continuing policy of "active snow removal."

Conti also made reference to his service with the town as a former parks and recreation commissioner and said that the town should give hiring preference for summer jobs to town youth.

Conti is currently a non-salaried consultant to Sheriff Thomas F. Mayone, involved in setting up a book-keeping system for the sheriff who took office six months ago.

Ellenville Police
Report on Arrests

ELLENVILLE
Ellenville Village Police reported today the arrests last Friday of three persons on felony drug charges in connection with an investigation begun in February into marijuana traffic in the area.

Charged with two counts each of fifth degree criminal sale and sixth degree criminal possession of a controlled substance were Leslie Wilenken, 20, of Ulster Heights, and Brian Kelley, 23, of Ellenville. Charged with one count each of fifth degree criminal sale and sixth degree criminal possession of a controlled substance was Benjamin Torres, 18, of Ellenville.

The arrests were made on warrants signed by Village Justice Ronald Elias. The three charged were jailed in lieu of $1,000 bail each following arraignment.

Police Chief William Trapnell praised the officers involved in the investigation and arrests, including Assistant Chief George Sheeley and Patrolmen William Reilly, Peter Williams and Richard Hobart.

According to authorities, the undercover investigation had to be drawn to a halt on June 1 with the termination of the detective division of the Ellenville Police Department.

Bomb
Blast
In Paltz

TOWN OF NEW PALTZ
A large explosion, apparently caused by a pipe bomb, rocked a rural area of the Town of New Paltz Saturday night. State police BCI investigators said today they have no leads or suspects in the incident.

According to authorities, the bomb exploded in a field at about 9 p.m. and caused no injuries or damage other than to the ground. A large hole and pipe fragments were found at the scene.

The device exploded near Van Nostrand Road and the blast could reportedly be heard more than a half mile away.

Rolison
Set As Speaker

POUGHKEEPSIE
State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. will address the Tuesday meeting of the Builders Association of the Hudson Valley at the Camelot Restaurant, Poughkeepsie.

Senator Rolison is expected to discuss pending legislation affecting the building industry, with particular emphasis on those laws relating to banking. Rolison is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee.

The June 10 meeting is the last general membership meeting of the association until September.

Probe
Drug Agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Buy" money, the cash federal narcotics agents use to pay off informers, has risen from $500,000 to $9.6 million this year, according to Senate subcommittee sources.

The reason for that sharp increase, as well as sweeping charges that corrupt federal agents have committed murder, theft and many other crimes in the line of duty, were to come up at hearings starting today by the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Subcommittee sources, stressed the unproven nature of the charges, said the hearings will cover a broad and lurid variety of corruption charges against federal narcotics men.

They said the charges will include allegations agents have murdered informants, kidnapped and planted evidence on suspects, used illegal wiretapping and stolen from the huge federal payroll for informers.

One line of investigation, they said, will examine claims that Howard Hughes' Summa Corp. bankrolled federal agents at Las Vegas gambling tables to help them establish "cover" in a drive against drug dealers known as "Operation Silver Dollar."

The sources said the hearings also would focus on the increase in federal requests for "buy" money.

There have been allegations, sources said, that agents have drawn money to pay an informant, forged his name to a receipt and pocketed the money.

City Man
Is Charged

ELLENVILLE
A 26-year-old Kingston man was charged with first degree rape and sodomy Sunday by state police following an alleged sexual attack on a woman who had given him a ride in her car.

Police said James Campbell of 268 Washington Avenue was arrested Sunday night and charged in connection with the alleged early morning attack on a 25-year-old Ellenville woman.

According to authorities, the woman, who was not identified, told them she agreed to give Campbell a ride early Sunday from an Ellenville bar. Troopers said the woman told them Campbell forced her to drive to Trapps Road in the Town of Gardiner where he allegedly sexually assaulted her. Later released, the woman drove to her home, and accompanied by her husband went to police.

Following arraignment, Campbell was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bail.

'Fair Condition'

KINGSTON
A 24-year-old Kingston resident, John Lalima of 72 Groff Street, continued in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital. Lalima was injured early Saturday when allegedly struck on the head with a broken beer mug at an Ulster Avenue Mall nightspot. Troopers charged Larry Cooper, 21 of Rhinebeck with first degree assault in the incident.

Jean Adams
TEEN

By Jean Adams

SEX: (COMMENT) I read Teen Forum every day and it gets me when I see people 14 and 15 writing about how their boy friends wanted to go all the way and they did. As a result they are pregnant.

Maybe if they would look at life realistically, things like that wouldn't happen. I wonder if a girl like that thinks the guy is going to marry her.

I guess maybe I'm old-fashioned (or crazy), waiting for the right guy to come along. And until he does, I have my friends and sports.—CONTENT IN CONNECTICUT.

(A.) I do not think you are old-fashioned, or crazy, either. I think you have good, 1975-model common sense.

MOM, GIRL: (Q.) Debbie likes me a whole lot, I think. She doesn't want me to hang around other girls. She gets real mad when I do. I don't like her that much—just as a friend. My mother doesn't like Debbie at all. She says she's too old for me (I am 15 and Debbie is 17). My mother doesn't like any girl I like. Tell me what to do about Debbie AND my mother.—BOSSED IN INDIANA

(A.) You must talk to Debbie and make it very clear to her, as kindly as you can, that you are friends, but not steady boy friend and girl friend, and that you have no strings on her and she has none on you.

Explain this to your mother too. It will ease her concern. I do not believe she dislikes Debbie or other girls but that she has your welfare at heart. She doesn't want any girl to hurt you.

As you grow older she will see that girls are going to be a part of your life no matter what she says, and she will accept the fact.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

rupt your schedule a bit, but will prove to be for the better. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Continue to be alert for gains you could acquire through off-beat sources. Move fast, the opportunist won't hang around long.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A pleasant surprise is in store for you socially. Don't turn down an invitation to an event where you could meet someone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll come up with your best ideas today if you can get off somewhere quiet alone. Follow through on hunches.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A friend will be getting in touch to discuss an idea of his. Though it may sound a little far out, hear him out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lady Luck is still in your corner where your major goals are concerned. Today she'll pull a few more strings for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll have your own special way to do things today. It will work for your advantage even though others will find your methods strange.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be involved in a business situation today that will be conducted unconventionally, yet it will work to your benefit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You think best early in the day, so put to use any bright ideas that occur to you in the a.m. They'll prove worthwhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't wait to be asked by the boss to do things you know need doing. Your initiative will be rewarded today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Children will respond to your directives today. They'll remember the lesson you want to teach, if you talk to them on their level.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Start now to activate plans you have for minor transformations around the house, or they may face further delays.

Jacoby Waits for First Move

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "How about some articles on absolute guesses?" Oswald: "I have never believed that there isn't some indication to make one play a slight favorite against another."

Jim: "How about this hand that you played some time ago against Alvin Roth sitting East and Tobias Stone sitting West. You ruffed the diamond lead in dummy, led a spade to your queen, entered dummy with the ace of hearts, led another spade and went into a real huddle after Roth played the nine. Eventually you played the king and made the slam. Do you mean to tell me that you had an indication there?"

Oswald: "I thought I got one. We were playing on bridge-rama in an important match so I got up and walked to a big chair in the corner of the room to think in comfort. Before I got settled Stone was up to get a glass of water. I had made up my mind before getting up that if either opponent moved, I would play his partner for the ace. Maybe it wasn't an edge, but it sure worked."
